Liberal Party Faces Parting Of Ways At Red Deer Meetings

E. L. Gray To Present Political Review To Executive and Council Meetings Friday and Saturday

RED DEER, June 16.—Keen interest is being manifested in the meeting of the Alberta Provincial Liberal executive here on Friday evening, June 16, and on the meeting which follows on Saturday morning which will be attended by Liberal officials from all sections of the province. Robert Barrowman, president of the Alberta Provincial Liberal Association, will preside at both meetings, and E. L. Gray, M.L.A., Alberta provincial leader, will present to the executive and to the general meeting which follows his review of the political situation in the province.

Leaders here state that the Liberal party in Alberta will be faced with the momentous decision as to whether the party is to stand or fall on the reform program and platform adopted by the Liberal convention which was enunciated in 1935 during the campaign of the former leader, W. R. Howson, now Mr. Justice Howson of the supreme court bench.

There was no change in this platform at the last Liberal convention in Calgary at the time Mr. Gray was elected leader to succeed Mr. Justice Howson following his elevation to the bench, the general opinion expressed at that time being that the widespread support it had received during the 1935 campaign indicating that it met with the approval of the Liberal electors and others generally.

PEOPLES' LEAGUE DEFUNCT

Mr. Gray, after receiving the unanimous support of the convention for leader, stated that he was personally in favor of co-operating with the then U.F.A. political party, as well as with the Conservative party, to bring about the defeat of the Aberhart government. Since that time the Peoples' League was formed, but, owing to its composition, received no public support and is now defunct, although

E.I.D. HAD TO ACT TO HELP FOOD COMPANY

Pressure From Farmers Resulted In Aid Attempt Inquiry Told

By SAM G. ROSS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

BROOKS, Alta., June 16.—Evidence that pressure from farmers led trustees of the Eastern Irrigation District to attempt to assist National Food Products Limited and that the Bassano Creamery was the only "live asset" of the food company was given the Jackson inquiry into E.I.D. affairs here today.

Carl Anderson of Scandia, chairman of the board of trustees of the E.I.D., said that while the E.I.D. trustees unofficially opposed farmers investing in the food company it had to act later to aid the company.

This was because of the position of the E.I.D. farmers and their demands that something be done. Early investigation had shown the company could not succeed in the opinion of E.I.D. trustees, he said.

OPPOSED FORMATION

Christian Toppenburg of Calgary, manager of the food company, said he opposed formation of the new company to run the Bassano Creamery as it was the only live asset of the food company. He signed the papers as manager of the food company after being shown minutes authorizing him to sign when Rupert Huistel, food company president, appeared to be satisfied with the formation of the separate company.

Mr. Toppenburg, manager of the Southern Alberta Dairy Pool, said when he became manager of the Food company in 1938, he had been

TWO AWARDED DAMAGES FOR AUTO INJURY

Pauline Sylvestre, eight-year-old Morinville child and Mrs. Sophia Van Manen Edmonton, were successful in their supreme court damage actions, the former being awarded $1,268 special and general damages, and the latter $1,409.55, by Mr. Justice A. F. Ewing Friday. Both litigants were represented by Neil D. Maclean, K.C.

In the Sylvestre case, claim was made for compensation for injuries received in an automobile accident on the Morinville highway on March 23 last, and Mr. Maclean pleaded that although the plaintiff did not suffer apparent physical injury she should be compensated for shock injury. This submission is comparatively new in Alberta courts, but is widely recognized in the courts of Great Britain.

Liability for the accident was admitted in the other case, the hearing on Friday being confined to the quantum of damages to be awarded.

Workman Injured Repairing Truck

John Clark, aged 23, of 9615 101 street, received severe cuts to the head and was unconscious for several hours when the box of a truck fell on his head while he was repairing a hand hoist in the Hoover Machine Shop, Thursday. He is a patient in the University Hospital.

Clark was operated on by Dr. H. H. Hepburn Friday morning and is recovering. His forehead was slightly crushed and there was a gash below his eye. He had been repairing an old type hand hoist on a dump truck. This type is being replaced by hydraulic hoists on many trucks.

Charles H. Tweed, Edmonton Airman, Killed In Crash

JUNEAU, Alaska, June 16.—A Canadian seaplane carrying 265 gallons of cased gasoline smashed into a mooring buoy after a take-off late yesterday and burst into flames and sank, killing Pilot Charles Tweed. Missing from the wreckage, his body was found late last night by searchers, badly burned.

Trapped in the wreckage of his seaplane when it crashed into a mooring buoy and overturned as he was attempting a take-off, with 265 gallons of cased gasoline in the cabin, from the harbor at Juneau, Alaska, about 5 p.m. Thursday, Pilot Charles H. Tweed, 40, of Edmonton, was killed.

His air engineer, Cecil Pickell, 21, of Fort St. John, B. C., was picked up by the crew of a motor launch which raced to the scene of the accident, and was taken to hospital in Juneau for treatment for injuries to his face and head.

BURST INTO FLAMES

The pontoon-equipped cabin plane, which was reported up on its steps and about to take off when it hit the floating object, upset and the load of gasoline burst into flames which were extinguished as the wreckage sank immediately carrying Tweed to his death in the icy waters.

Tweed and Pickell landed their machine, which is owned by Yukon Southern Air Transport, Limited, at Juneau, late Wednesday from the Dease Lake district in northern British Columbia, and were begin-

Rain Falls In Calgary For 14th Consecutive Day

CALGARY, June 16.—Rain fell in Calgary district today for the 14th consecutive day, bringing Calgary's precipitation since June 1 to 5.12 inches, one of the heaviest early June moisture records in many years. Rain since yesterday afternoon totalled more than .81 inch, said officials at the federal meteorological bureau here.

Moisture in the first half of June this year almost doubles that of any full June month in the previous 10 years and was slightly more than two inches below the June of 1928 when more than seven inches were recorded.

Rains were general in other southern Alberta districts today, according to early reports.

King George VI, Consort, Away On Misty Sea

By JOHN LEBLANC
Canadian Press Staff Writer

HALIFAX, June 16.—The King and Queen sailed away to the east today, while Canada mingled joy over their visit with regret at the parting.

Behind them, far behind the spreading white wake of the liner Empress of Britain, they left a thunderstruck nation. Canada could not quite become accustomed to a land without its King George and Queen Elizabeth, just as it could not realize a month ago that its monarch and his consort had come to its shores.

Out on the misty Atlantic, heading for old Newfoundland, were George VI and his consort. The huge white liner that left Halifax at 6:32 p.m., E.D.T., last night was due to arrive tomorrow, to give them a few hours on the soil of Britain's oldest colony before they struck out finally for home and the end of their epochal tour of North America.

The Newfoundland visit, last of the voyage that left a trail of footnotes for the history books, was the finale of a trip now stretching into its 31st day on this side of the Atlantic. And it was unique in that King George was to perform one more act never done by a British monarch—invest five Newfoundland residents, in Newfoundland, with orders conferred on them in his birthday list.

Federal Election Late September Or Early October

OTTAWA, June 16.—With the visit of Their Majesties to Ottawa terminated, the Federal cabinet is catching up on arrears of work and cabinet meetings are scheduled daily for all next week. The daily meetings have been made necessary owing to the absence from Ottawa of Prime Minister Rt. Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King during the past month, when he was minister in attendance on His Majesty the King during the tour across Canada and the visit to the United States.

Liberal headquarters here are also a hive of activity, preparing, it is said, for the possibility of a Federal general election late in September or early in October.

Conservative headquarters are also busy making final arrangements for the coast-to-coast tour of Hon. Robert Manion, Conservative leader, which starts on July 15 and which is regarded as the preliminary to general election activities. Hon. Dr. Manion has completed the preparation of his election manifesto, which may be released prior to the actual calling of the elections.

WAR TRAINING IS INTENSIFIED FOR DOMINION

Hon. Ian Mackenzie, Defence Minister, Faces Big Task

En route back to his office at Ottawa for what he believes will be one of the heaviest summer's work ever yet encountered by department of national defence officials in peace time, Hon. Ian A. Mackenzie, minister of national defence for Canada, passed through Edmonton Thursday night. He had remained at Vancouver since accompanying Their Majesties on the British Columbia end of their Canadian tour.

"At the last session the House passed the biggest peace time training vote in the history of the department, and as a result practically every militia unit in Canada will be under canvas this summer, undergoing intensified training. All the training will be with the latest type weapons and equipment and Canada's soldiers will be given the benefit of training under the latest approved methods of warfare," he said when interviewed here.

This year, for the first time, militia organizations are being provided with boots as part of their equipment. In the past, although all other items of uniform and equipment were provided, boots were at the militiamen's own expense, but this year the vote went the original sponsors of the Peoples' League are credited with forming the Unity party, headed by John I, McFarland of Calgary, which is now active, with many former members of the Peoples' League taking a leading part in its support and organization.

Since its formation and during the past year the Unity Party, through Mr. McFarland, has carried on negotiations with Mr. Gray and with D. M. Duggan, M.L.A., Alberta Conservative leader, seeking their support for his Unity Party. Mr. Duggan, on behalf of the Conservative Party and after a meeting of his executive, made a public declaration that there would be no Conservative candidates placed in the field provincially, but afterwards in the legislature added that the Unity Party must have a definite platform and not a negative one before it could receive his support. He also stated that if such a platform and policy was not forthcoming he would recommend to his executive that Conservative candidates be placed in all constituencies.

PLATFORM FORMULATED

The Unity Party has now formulated a platform and has laid down the ruling that the Unity Party will not permit any candidate in the provincial field contesting the elections carrying a party label other than that of Unity Party, Independent, or Non-Party and that all others will be opposed by his organization.

This demand was rejected by Mr. Gray who stated that the proposal must include the right of a constituency to be autonomous and to make its own choice and select a candidate under a party label if this was considered desirable. However, he offered on behalf of the Liberal Party to give the Unity Party the right-of-way in more than half of the 57 seats, thirty in all.

Mr. McFarland rejected the offer, and stated that it was "one of the worst pieces of political skullduggery ever heard of," and intimated that unless the Liberal Party was prepared to adopt the Unity Party proposals under which no candidate could run as a Liberal but must carry the Unity Party label, the same as had been agreed to by the Conservative Party, the Unity Party would go ahead and organize and run a candidate in all 57 seats as a straight Unity Party candidate supporting the Unity Party platform.

HEATED DISCUSSIONS

It is this ultimatum from Mr. McFarland which is bound to cause heated discussions at the meetings taking place here, as there is a large and influential body of the Liberal rank and file who see nothing but disaster for their party in going into the Unity Party, especially as it is now well understood that the provincial elections will be held concurrently with the federal elections.

Liberals holding this view point out the folly of the Liberal Party sacrificing its principles and traditions in the provincial field while at the same time contesting a federal election in the province in which there will be a full slate of Conservative candidates, in addition to Social Credit and the C.C.F. Party which is contesting all provincial seats as well as all federal seats now that the U.F.A. Party nas left the political arena in Alberta.

ADHERE TO PLATFORM

At the last full meeting of the Alberta Provincial Liberal executive held in Edmonton some months ago it was unanimously decided that the constitution of the Liberal party would be followed, and that the aims and objects and platform of the party must be adhered to if disintegration of the party as a party was to be avoided, as has taken place in the Conservative party since that organization abandoned the provincial field to go into the Unity party.

At the Edmonton meeting the clause setting forth the stand of the executive read as follows:

"The objects of the Association shall be: (1) To enunciate and promote Liberal political principles and policies; (2) To organize the Liberal party in the electoral constituencies of Alberta; (3) To provide for a uniform and democratic system of nomination and to promote the election of Liberal candidates; (4) Generally to do all things calculated to further the above objects."

Officials of the C.C.F. have publicly stated on more than one occasion that they will not sacrifice their principles by joining the Unity party, but will promote socialism as the only remedy to meet present conditions, not only in the province but in the Dominion, and a large body of Liberal followers feel that the same course should be followed by the Liberal party if the party is to be kept intact as a progressive reform fighting force.

reluctant to take the post because of the position of the company.

At Bassano he had opposed the formation of a new company to operate the Bassano creamery, he said, when questioned by G. M. Blackstock, K.C., counsel for the commissioner.

DIDN'T LIKE DEAL

"I didn't like the deal," said Mr Toppenburg, "Mr. Huistel, however, seemed to be satisfied." When Mr. Toppenburg and Mr. Huistel signed the papers, Mr. Toppenburg said he read the papers for formation of the new company.

"Mr. Huistel seemed satisfied with the deal," said Mr. Toppenburg, when examined by W. H. McLaws, counsel for E. L. Gray, Alberta Liberal leader and former manager of the E.I.D.

There was hope, said Mr. Toppenburg, that the farmers would form a co-operative to take over the project. Mr. Toppenburg told Judge Jackson he was under the Questioned by William McLaws, K.C., Bassano, counsel for E. I. D. trustees, Mr. Toppenburg said references had been made about forming co-operatives.

He agreed with Mr. McLaws that in some quarters it had been suggested that if the E. I. D. had reserve funds those funds might be used to establish co-operatives.

Mr. Anderson, called by Mr. McLaws, counsel for Mr. Gray, said the trustees instructed Mr. Gray to investigate feasibility of establishing a canning factory as proposed by the National Food Company. The investigation showed to the trustees the futility of starting such a project, he said. Unofficially trustees opposed farmers' investing in food company but farmers took the view that if the government loaned money to the company it was good enough for farmers to invest in, said Mr. Anderson. Because of demands of E.I.D. farmers Mr. Gray was unofficially asked to check if anything could be done to aid the food company. It was decided that if anything could be done it had been by divisions starting with the creamery.

The Bassano Creamery and Produce Company was then formed as a separate company which would become producer-owned, said Mr. Anderson. The new company was neither for the E.I.D. nor Mr. Gray.

With the new company formed the E.I.D. fostered shipment of cream by the farmers to the Bassano creamery. There was no secret about formation of the new company, he said.

PERMISSION TO ACT

The E.I.D. trustees gave Mr. Gray permission to act and there was no question of Mr. Gray doing anything he was not permitted to do. The advance of $350 by the E.I.D. to the Bassano Creamery was authorized by Mr. Gray "and we would have told him to go ahead and do it any way," said Mr. Anderson.

The Bassano Creamery was turned back to National Food Products when it was contended Mr. Huistel stood to lose heavily, he said. Since then the E.I.D. trustees informally had sought means to aid the food company.

Examined by Mr. Blackstock, Mr. Anderson said the E.I.D. had discussed renting or buying the Brooks building owned by the food company. There was talk of renting the building to the Dominion government for militia purposes even though there was still some hope of using it for a cheese factory or other purposes.

through for providing the army with the necessary footgear.

Speaking in regard to other activities of his department the defence minister stated aircraft production would shortly receive great momentum in Canada.

"We have seven plants building equipment for the Canadian squadrons, and all are now in production," he said. "These are in addition to the joint plants where contracts have been placed for both the British and Canadian army. We are well pleased with the progress made, and while it is not considered advisable to give out actual figures I can say that our program is running well up to schedule and that great strides have been made in production."

Canada's Pacific coast defences were also rapidly getting into shape, he said.

PACIFIC DEFENCES

"We have concentrated on the Pacific defences as they are more necessary under the present set-up than Atlantic defences which can be taken care of by the British navy and in other ways," he said. "However they are not being neglected and Canada's coast defences, both on the Atlantic and the Pacific, are coming along well."

News from the Orient in the past 48 hours has been rather disturbing Hon. Mr. Mackenzie said, but he was hopeful that the tension would be eased.

"I have not been in close communication with the department since being at the Coast and know nothing much more than I see in the newspapers, but I believe the situation in Europe is getting better, although the news that is coming out of the Orient is disturbing, to say the least," he said.

The visit of Their Majesties to Canada, and the side visit to the United States, he thought would have a tremendous effect towards world peace.

LESS TENSION

"It has already had that effect," he said. "There has been a marked lessening of the tension in Europe since that visit, and it undoubtedly has had a wonderful effect on the unity of Canada. Canadians have now seen in person their King and Queen, and they have seen what wonderfully fine characters they are. It has brought the people closer to the throne, and the throne closer to the Canadian people.

"In addition it has cemented still further the friendship already existing between Canada and the United States and Great Britain and the United States. As the King said in his farewell speech at Halifax, Canada and the United States have set an example of friendship to the whole world, an example that can be followed between nation and nation everywhere if the will to peace is there.

LOOK FOR PEACE

"His Majesty summed it all up at aim of the nations of the world. I think this visit has made the world conscious of the fact that Great Britain and the British Empire is earnestly looking for peace and for a co-operative way out of the world's economic morass. It has been an object lesson for the dictator nations, and one which they have doubtless taken at its full value. It showed that Canada is solidly behind the British Empire, and that the United States has a warm spot in its heart for its northern neighbor and for Britain and is at one with them in an effort to preserve the peace of the world at whatever cost may be necessary."

Hon. Mr. Mackenzie was greeted by a number of Edmonton friends during the time the train stayed in the city. Hon. James A. MacKinnon, Edmonton's member of the federal cabinet, also went back to Ottawa Thursday night.

LONDON, June 16.—The British government is considering denouncement of the 1911 Anglo-Japanese treaty as a prelude to launching of a series of economic reprisals against Japan for blockading the British concession in Tientsin.

The 1911 treaty, which guarantees Japan most favored nation tariff treatment in Britain's colonial empire, stands in the way of any immediate discriminatory tariffs or export embargoes which might be employed as economic reprisals.

TOKYO, June 16.—The foreign office spokesman declared today no further negotiations with the British were likely over the dispute in Tientsin.

As a result of this condition, number of crows' and magpies' legs turned in for bounties is much smaller this year than last. Less than 300 pair have been turned in pair on crows and magpies' legs will be paid until the end of June. Financial assistance for the drive has been offered the league by Ducks Unlimited.

song was ever sung more fervently.

The Canadian destroyer Skeena then the Saguenay led the way out to sea, followed by the Empress of Britain, then the Southampton and the Glasgow, the two British cruisers which escorted Their Majesties over on the Empress of Australia.

In the swarm of craft which crowded round was the famous Nova Scotia fishing schooner the Bluenose. Her decks were crowded and she was a sight to catch the eye of a sailor as she went down channel under her auxiliary power; a swallow among the sparrows. After her last international race she was fitted with auxiliary engines to resume her every day job on the Grand Banks.

HARBOR PATROLLED

The R.C.M.P. revenue cruisers patrolled the harbor until the flotilla sailed and saw them out past the island. They were there to succor the disabled an dafter the departure one of the little grey craft was seen towing a disreputable cabin cruiser up the river.

The engines of the tub had broken down and she had to be hauled clear of the speeding swarm around the Empress.

On other occasions when Their Majesties have put to sea in Canada or the United States other craft were kept at a distance from the Royal yacht, but Halifax mariners were not to be gainsaid. Once the Empress of Britain cast off the tugs and proceeded under control under her own power they darted in and all but scraped the paint off her sides.

GRAND SPECTACLE

The Britain was headed up stream at the dockside and instead of turning, the whole flotilla circled up round the basin and the ships gave the populace ashore a grand spectacle.

The Skeena led the merry-go-round, then the Saguenay. The Empress of Britain followed and the two British cruisers which had gone down by the island and turned upstream again followed in her wake. All five ships were in line ahead as they came down stream past the waterfront. As the Empress came into the clear and headed straight down stream the enthusiastic craft saw their chance and dived in, for all the world like a crowd of admiring urchins following the Lady Bountiful.

Thousands of Railway Employees Play Part in Making Visit Success

HALIFAX, June 16—The Royal visit is over, and Canadian railway men from coast to coast are proud of the part they have played in making it the tremendous success it was.

Literally thousands of employees of the Canadian National and Canadian Pacific organizations participated in the hardest task they have ever been called on to perform, and from Quebec to Victoria and back to Halifax everything went smoothly.

TREMENDOUS DETAIL

At least 8,000 of the 9,000 miles the Royal party travelled in Ca-

ollowed an hour

just in case any mechanical breakdown would necessitate exchange of parts or even whole locomotives.

MANY TRAIN CREWS

Running crews along the Royal Route were changed at each divisional point, so the number of engineers, firemen and brakemen who served the Royal Party adds up well in the hundreds. Then there were the hotel staffs, responsible for luncheons and dinners in many Canadian cities.

In only one case was a mechanical failure experienced. During the United States end of the tour a hot box—or, as the English correspondents put it, an over-[illegible] journal—delayed the pilot ain for a short time. The Royal in itself had not an instant's lay because of engine or running gear trouble.

The train travelled more than 000 miles. Its crew numbered bout 500. The unbroken run of the anadian Pacific Railway locomotive 2850 which hauled the train rom Quebec to the Pacific coast onstituted a world record, officials said.

overnment Leaders ear Royal Cheers As ote National Unity

By The Canadian Press

anada's swelling cheers that lowed the King and Queen ross the country and back uck to at least some government leaders the high note of naonal unity. They heard the heers as a unified chorus from a ation, rather than nine provnces.

The Canadian Press asked Canda's provincial premiers what the oyal visit had meant to the Doinion and to Canadians.

"The Royal visit has awakened e national spirit of Canada," said remier William Aberhart of Alerta, the first to write his impreson, making the point that was aken up across the country.

GREAT STIMULUS

Premier Thane A. Campbell of Prince Edward Island said: "Canada's unity should receive a great stimulus from the fact that every province has shared in the reception of our common King and Queen."

Manitoba's premier, John Bracken, wrote at Ottawa, where he is conferring with federal authorities: "Nothing in our history has so absorbed and unified the nation's thinking as the visit of our King and Queen."

SPIRIT OF UNITY

Premier W. J. Patterson of Saskatchewan added: "The visit has demonstrated that, despite sectional differences, there is an essential spirit of unity existent through the entire Dominion and that Canada has proceeded much further along the road toward nationhood than most of us had appreciated."

Premier Aberhart asserted the visit had not only awakened a national spirit, but had given Canadians "An appreciation of their high position in the empire, and it has made the world Canada-conscious to a degree unknown before."

The leader of the world's only Social Credit government added:

"It has thrown open the portals of new world markets to the products of Canadian farms, mines, forests and waters, and it has given to the world a greater knowledge of the diversions Canadian parks and playgrounds offer the tourist.

"Finally, it has left in the minds of millions of Canadian boys and girls an ever-fresh memory of the manners and appearance of their King and of the magnetic smile and motherly charm of their Queen—a memory which, as these children cherish it, they will strive to emulate; a memory which, during all their lives, will make theirs a personal song prayer when they sing 'God Save the King'."

Premier T. D. Pattullo of British Columbia had the following comment:

DEEP-ROOTED ATTACHMENT

"The visit of Their Majesties exemplified the deep-rooted attachment of the Canadian people to the motherland.

"The enthusiasm displayed in the United States was an expression of goodwill from the heart of the American people.

"The love of the King and Queen for humanity is so openly evident and the response of the people is a tribute to their personal charm."

MEANT SO MUCH

Premier Patterson said the visit meant so much to Canada, so deeply touched the people and produced such impressions that it was difficult to express them.

"The visit has demonstrated that despite sectional differences, there is an essential spirit of unity existent throughout the entire Dominion and that Canada has proceeded much further along the way towards nationhood than most of us had appreciated. These are only some of the many quite evident effects, but these alone are sufficient to indicate the immeasurable value of the visit of Their Majesties to this Dominion," he said.

Canada Bids Farewell To Their Majesties At Halifax

waterfront, the King had conferred honors upon three of the men who contributed in the details that went toward making the tour of himself and his Queen a triumph—none Canadians. But the Newfoundland Investiture will be a departure from British tradition, one more of the many precedents George VI has added to the list of his trip.

He added a few precedents to the book, too, on the mainland of the continent. Such as the time he and the Queen mixed unguarded with a huge crowd of war veterans in Ottawa without an escort, and when they went into the United States and the King paid his respects at the home of George Washington—the man who succeeded in wresting those states from Great Britain.

ENTRENCHED IN HEARTS

From Nova Scotia to British Columbia, a freedom-loving people took wholeheartedly to these departures from the cold handbook of tradition. Day by day, King George and Queen Elizabeth found themselves entrenched deeper into the hearts of Canadians.

Jean Baptiste first extended his hand to them in Quebec, on May 17 as they landed from the Empress of Australia after a tedious journey through the Atlantic's spring ice. And from then on, their tour was just one conquest after another.

Canada Parts Sadly With King and Queen

By A. E. FULFORD

Canadian Press Staff Writer

HALIFAX, June 16.—Canada parted sadly with its King and Queen last night as they turned their faces toward home across the sea at the end of a history-book tour of triumph through the dominion and the United States.

A country steeped in affection for King George and his gracious consort, Elizabeth, bade them a regretful Godspeed through the lips of 150,000 roaring subjects as they sailed away to make a new conquest of Newfoundland on the way to the homeland.

Their month's stay on the North American mainland ended at 6:32 p.m. E.D.T., as the white liner Empress of Britain eased out into Halifax harbor and headed into the open Atlantic with its royal passengers. Wave upon wave of sound rolled out from the shore in the wake of the great ship, caught up with it and echoed across the harbor's placid waters.

DEAFENING ACCLAIM

It came from a block of humanity massed around the waterfront—more than double the normal population of this old seaport of 70,000. The King and Queen in their automobile had driven through the throng an hour before, to the deafening acclaim of such a concourse as Halifax never before had witnessed.

About their last act on the soil of this dominion was to exchange farewells with Great War veterans who crowded into the pier's big shed. The veterans all but burst their way through guards of police in their eagerness to get near Their Majesties, and the royal visitors loved it. They stopped to mingle with the veterans before walking away to the gangplank as a royal salute barked out from the guns of tall Citadel Hill.

The crash of the cannon signalled not only the end of a vivid chapter in Canadian history, but, for Halifax, the end of perhaps the greatest day in its long history. For more than seven hours, Halifax had the King and Queen to itself.

Canada generally and the rest of the Empire were let in on the events, at first hand, for a few minutes only. That was when the King and Queen broadcast their farewell to the Dominion through the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation network and over an Empire hookup.

MINDS, HEARTS FULL

"Our minds and our hearts are full," King George said in the speech he delivered at the end of the provincial government's luncheon. "We leave your shores after some of the most inspiring and illuminating weeks in our lives." He returned to England, he said, with "a new sense of the resources and of the responsibilities of our British empire."

The Queen addressed herself directly to the women and children of Canada. She told them "how glad" she was to have met so many of them. Seeing Canada had been a "real delight," and the people's demonstrations of their gladness at seeing Their Majesties had "warmed my heart in a way I cannot express in words."

9,000-MILE TRIP

For Their Majesties, the departure meant the end of about 9,000 miles of transcontinental travel.

Starting in old Quebec, where French-Canada took them to its heart as they landed May 17, they traversed the Dominion to Victoria and then back as far as Ontario, where they cut into the United States for a history-making call on President Roosevelt.

On their last day in the Dominion, Their Majesties were followed about the city by roar on roar of thunderous welcome from the moment their glistening "palace on wheels" rolled into the station from Truro, N.S., until the time came to bid them adieu. Smiling and waving, they acknowledged the cheers along 10 miles of streets and at spots where they halted for functions.

QUEEN CHARMS CROWDS

The Queen, dressed in her favorite blue, charmed the crowds. The King, in the dress uniform of an admiral of the fleet, found broad grins in response to his infectious smile all along the route.

The day before had been an exhausting one—from New Brunswick to Prince Edward Island to Nova Scotia—but the energetic couple bore up well under the round of welcomes in sultry heat. The King looked drawn at the start of the day, but seemed to draw added strength from the spirit of the crowds as the day wore on.

FORMAL RECEPTION

After the preliminary ceremonies at the station platform, a formal reception at the ancient Province Building launched the day 15 minutes after their arrival at 11:05 a.m. There, Premier Angus L. Macdonald tendered on behalf of the province an address of welcome and allegiance, and the King handed him an address.

In the red-carpeted council chamber, near the old courtroom where Joseph Howe fought and won his case for responsible government in Nova Scotia, the King then received a group of provincial notables. Before he left, he unveiled Sir Syly Grier's painting of his late father, King George V.

A civic reception in the old parade grounds outside city hall followed, and Their Majesties were taken to luncheon. Then they drove through a city bedecked with bunting, flags and photographs of themselves, and lined with men, women and children. Flying side by side with the Union Jack was the flag of Nova Scotia, the only Canadian province which can fly its own standard with Royal authority.

Hospitals were visited, and wan faces brightened at an unexpected word of two from one or another of the Royal guests. They went to Citadel Hill, a solid cliffside of tightly packed humans in a natural ampitheatre, to see a staging of the scene as Nova Scotia—the only "Royal" province—was gven to Sir William Alexander to colonize by Charles I ancestor of the monarch who looked on.

UNSCHEDULED EVENTS

A stroll through the city's beautiful public gardens, in which the King and Queen met the eight-month-old Salterio triplets and replanted an oak placed in the soil the day of the Coronation—both unscheduled events—precede their arrival at Government House for a farewell tea with Lieut.-Governor Robert Irwin.

All about the grey stone building, crowds teemed while they awaited the reappearance of Their Majesties for the last, short trip down to the wharf. The people surged along behind them as the car made its way toward the waterfront for the leave-taking.

It took something more than an hour before the Empress swung agay from the dock. During that time, when the Royal visitors weren't being cheered as they stood on the bridge, there were united chants from those ashore: "We want the King and Queen."

At the last, as the "Royal yacht" slowly lumbered away into the stream, they were standing beside the bridge rail, waving and smiling a farewell. The strains of "Auld Lang Syne" and "God Save the King" rolled out over the water.

The Empress, convoyed by two Canadian destroyers and the British cruisers Glasgow and Southampton, headed slowly up into the harbor. Among those waving a farewell were Prime Minister Mackenzie King and Lord and Lady Tweedsmuir, standing on a platform that projected out over the water.

Slowly, the majestic liner made a sweeping turn and then, gathering momentum, swept down harbor toward the Capes thrusting out into the Atlantic. Overhead droned a squadron of Royal Canadian Air Force planes, first to welcome the sovereign and his consort to Canada and last to carry out Canada's goodbye as they circled the ship until it was well away from land.

STATES FACING FARM PROBLEMS WITH COURAGE

CALGARY, June 16.—The United States is facing its agricultural problems with courage and resourcefulness, George E. Farrell, senior agriculturist of the U.S. department of agriculture, Washington, told the 43rd annual convention of the Western Stock Growers' Association here last night.

Mr. Farrell described a fourfold program instituted by the U.S. government.

The first phase of the program was a plan to build up to the soil, to prevent erosion and to increase fertility and productivity.

Secondly, there was a plan to cut down acreage to a place where available markets could absorb production.

Thirdly there was a loan program to assist farmers so that all of a crop would be thrown on the market at the same time.

Fourthly, "teeth" were put in a law which imposed marketing quotas in any product when two-thirds of the producers voted in favor of such a quota.

Eden Says Anglo-French Friendship Keystone Of European Peace

PARIS, June 16—Anthony Eden, former British foreign secretary, Thursday described Anglo-French friendship as the keystone of European peace.

The common policy of the two countries should be a constructive program to build a world "in which there is place for all," Mr. Eden declared. He spoke in French at a meeting presided over by Finance Minister Paul Reynaud.

He said British policy had made a complete about-face. "It is impossible to exaggerate the scope and importance of the resolution which has just occurred in the foreign policy of Great Britain. It was sudden but it was total, to such an extent that it would be difficult to find precedents for it in our long history."

Explaining why he had always been a partisan of the "entente cordiale," Mr. Eden said:

"The friendship between the English and the French, which is always growing, proceeds at the same time from our wishes and from necessity. That is why no stronger or surer ties can exist."

GENEVA, June 16.—Malcolm MacDonald, British colonial secretary, told the League of Nations mandates commission Thursday Britain proposed to allow 75,000 Jewish refugees to enter Palestine in the next five years.

After that, Mr. MacDonald said, "further Jewish immigration will take place only if the Arabs acquiesce."

Liberal Party Faces Parting Of Ways At Red Deer Meetings

the original sponsors of the Peoples' League are credited with forming the Unity party, headed by John I. McFarland of Calgary, which is now active, with many former members of the Peoples' League taking a leading part in its support and organization.

Since its formation and during the past year the Unity Party, through Mr. McFarland, has carried on negotiations with Mr. Gray and with D. M. Duggan, M.L.A., Alberta Conservative leader, seeking their support for his Unity Party. Mr. Duggan, on behalf of the Conservative Party and after a meeting of his executive, made a public declaration that there would be no Conservative candidates placed in the field provincially, but afterwards in the legislature added that the Unity Party must have a definite platform and not a negative one before it could receive his support. He also stated that if such a platform and policy was not forthcoming he would recommend to his executive that Conservative candidates be placed in all constituencies.

PLATFORM FORMULATED

The Unity Party has now formulated a platform and has laid down the ruling that the Unity Party will not permit any candidate in the provincial field contesting the elections carrying a party label other than that of Unity Party, Independent, or Non-Party and that all others will be opposed by his organization.

This demand was rejected by Mr. Gray who stated that the proposal must include the right of a constituency to be autonomous and to make its own choice and select a candidate under a party label if this was considered desirable. However, he offered on behalf of the Liberal Party to give the Unity Party the right-of-way in more than half of the 57 seats, thirty in all.

Mr. McFarland rejected the offer, and stated that it was "one of the worst pieces of political skullduggery ever heard of," and intimated that unless the Liberal Party was prepared to adopt the Unity Party proposals under which no candidate could run as a Liberal but must carry the Unity Party label, the same as had been agreed to by the Conservative Party, the Unity Party would go ahead and organize and run a candidate in all 57 seats as a straight Unity Party candidate supporting the Unity Party platform.

HEATED DISCUSSIONS

It is this ultimatum from Mr. McFarland which is bound to cause heated discussions at the meetings taking place here, as there is a large and influential body of the Liberal rank and file who see nothing but disaster for their party in going into the Unity Party, especially as it is now well understood that the provincial elections will be held concurrently with the federal elections.

Liberals holding this view point out the folly of the Liberal Party sacrificing its principles and traditions in the provincial field while at the same time contesting a federal election in the province in which there will be a full slate of Conservative candidates, in addition to Social Credit and the C.C.F. Party which is contesting all provincial seats as well as all federal seats now that the U.F.A. Party has left the political arena in Alberta.

ADHERE TO PLATFORM

At the last full meeting of the Alberta Provincial Liberal executive held in Edmonton some months ago it was unanimously decided that the constitution of the Liberal party would be followed, and that the aims and objects and platform of the party must be adhered to if disintegration of the party as a party was to be avoided, as has taken place in the Conservative party since that organization abandoned the provincial field to go into the Unity party.

At the Edmonton meeting the clause setting forth the stand of the executive read as follows:

"The objects of the Association shall be: (1) To enunciate and promote Liberal political principles and policies; (2) To organize the Liberal party in the electoral constituencies of Alberta; (3) To provide for a uniform and democratic system of nomination and to promote the election of Liberal candidates; (4) Generally to do all things calculated to further the above objects."

Officials of the C.C.F. have publicly stated on more than one occasion that they will not sacrifice their principles by joining the Unity party, but will promote socialism as the only remedy to meet present conditions, not only in the province but in the Dominion, and a large body of Liberal followers feel that the same course should be followed by the Liberal party if the party is to be kept intact as a progressive reform fighting force.

reluctant to take the post because of the position of the company.

At Bassano he had opposed the formation of a new company to operate the Bassano creamery, he said, when questioned by G. M. Blackstock, K.C., counsel for the commissioner.

DIDN'T LIKE DEAL

"I didn't like the deal," said Mr Toppenburg. "Mr. Huistel, however, seemed to be satisfied." When Mr. Toppenburg and Mr. Huistel signed the papers, Mr. Toppenburg said he read the papers for formation of the new company.

"Mr. Huistel seemed satisfied with the deal," said Mr. Toppenburg, when examined by W. H. McLaws, counsel for E. L. Gray, Alberta Liberal leader and former manager of the E.I.D.

There was hope, said Mr. Toppenburg, that the farmers would form a co-operative to take over the project. Mr. Toppenburg told Judge Jackson he was under the impression a separate farm co-operative would be formed.

through for providing the army with the necessary footgear.

Speaking in regard to other activities of his department the defence minister stated aircraft production would shortly receive great momentum in Canada.

"We have seven plants building equipment for the Canadian squadrons, and all are now in production," he said. "These are in addition to the joint plants where contracts have been placed for both the British and Canadian army. We are well pleased with the progress made, and while it is not considered advisable to give out actual figures I can say that our program is running well up to schedule and that great strides have been made in production."

Canada's Pacific coast defences were also rapidly getting into shape, he said.

PACIFIC DEFENCES

"We have concentrated on the Pacific defences as they are more necessary under the present set-up than Atlantic defences which can be taken care of by the British navy and in other ways," he said. "However they are not being neglected and Canada's coast defences, both on the Atlantic and the Pacific, are coming along well."

News from the Orient in the past 48 hours has been rather disturbing Hon. Mr. Mackenzie said, but he was hopeful that the tension would be eased.

"I have not been in close communication with the department since being at the Coast and know nothing much more than I see in the newspapers, but I believe the situation in Europe is getting better, although the news that is coming out of the Orient is disturbing, to say the least," he said.

The visit of Their Majesties to Canada, and the side visit to the United States, he thought would have a tremendous effect towards world peace.

LESS TENSION

"It has already had that effect," he said. "There has been a marked lessening of the tension in Europe since that visit, and it undoubtedly has had a wonderful effect on the unity of Canada. Canadians have now seen in person their King and Queen, and they have seen what wonderfully fine characters they are. It has brought the people closer to the throne, and the throne closer to the Canadian people.

"In addition it has cemented still further the friendship already existing between Canada and the United States and Great Britain and the United States. As the King said in his farewell speech at Halifax, Canada and the United States have set an example of friendship to the whole world, an example that can be followed between nation and nation everywhere if the will to peace is there.

LOOK FOR PEACE

"His Majesty summed it all up at Victoria, B. C. when in making a few remarks he said that "co-operation, not conflict" should be the aim of the nations of the world. I think this visit has made the world

New also is the revelation of the part a monarch can play in the cultivation of international friendship.

Mayor LaGuardia of New York told King George the visit to the United States had forged an unwritten treaty of friendship and had accomplished more than could be done by a dozen ambassadors and the exchange of fifty diplomatic notes. There is ample evidence that he did not overestimate the effect.

The demonstrations at Washington and New York proclaimed their own significance, for the conventional ceremonies were accompanied, even obscured, by spontaneous public enthusiasm which could scarcely be exceeded, and never was equalled on any previous occasion. The simple fact is that our neighbors were "taken" with the King and Queen, as were the people of Canada, and showed it in truly American fashion.

Sentiment does more than cold calculation to give tone to national relationships. Relations between the United States and the Britsh nations were cordial before, and long have been. They are something more than cordial now. To official friendliness there has been added a positive popular sense of political as well as racial kinship; a recognition that in essential matters our ideals and aims are one.

The people of the United States are probably closer now than they ever have been to understanding why the British peoples have preserved the monarchy; not as an institution valued for its historic interest, but as one vital and invaluable in the smooth working of a commonwealth of free and self-governing nations. ### Doing Well

From the day service on the Trans-Canada rlines was inaugurated right up to the present has been an unqualified success. So large has business been that already it has been neces- ry to buy more planes to handle the traffic fering. And so five large Lockheeds have en ordered and will be delivered in July. n. C. D. Howe told the House of Commons bout it the other day.

One of the expansions planned this sum- er is to double the service between Montreal, ronto and Winnipeg by providing a daytime well as a night service between Central and estern Canada. Then in September the service ll be extended to the Maritime Provinces, king it a coast-to-coast system. In addition tensions or branch lines will be established nnecting the lake-head ports with the main e and another from Toronto to Buffalo and troit.

For many years Canada has led the world in freight traffic. Its services into the north untry has accounted for that. But it has ged behind in airmail and organized air serv- s between the larger centres of population. at lag is now being made up rapidly. More- er this expansion is not being made experi- ntally or as a pioneer venture but to meet existing and pressing demand from the pub-

Right from the start airmail has been pop- ar. Many thousands of persons prefer to send eir ordinary letters by airplane. And pas- nger traffic is keeping up in a manner which sproves the idea that it would slump as soon the novelty wore off. There has been enough ne for the novelty to have passed and business still growing. In fact Canada now accepts air ansportation as a matter of course.—Saskatoon ar-Phoenix.

"Unity"

In the interests of clearer political thinking is important that there should be an early atement from the Conservative party as to its filiations in the coming general election. The iberals are going to stand on their record and y themselves. They are going to run their own now, and take a chance on their policies and erformances. If these are not as good as the eople think they might get from some other arty that has a chance of getting into office, the eople have it in their power to make a change.

The C.C.F. appears determined to go its own ay. It announces that it is going to have its wn candidates and that it refuses to be drawn to an alliance with other groups that are nxious to get into office.

Social Credit, Conservatives and Commun- sts show a tendency to get into a unity move- ent in order to defeat the government. That section of the Conservative party appears eady to make such a jump is apparent from the villingness of Melville Conservatives to enter to negotiations with the C.C.F. and Social redit for unity. The Communists have for some ears been pushing a unity movement to in- lude all "progressive" groups. The Herridge New Democracy" movement is leaving the ay open to put up its own candidates or to back candidate of some other group if they believe e is sufficiently progressive. In the main, one ay say that the Herridge people stand for nity against what they regard as a reactionary overnment.

The Conservatives have been one of the great arties in Canada and at present constitute the pposition in the house of commons. They have majority in the senate. As a party they have en in office when the Liberals were out and ut of office when the Liberals were in. They ay get into office again. There may be a future r the party as a group standing for some clearly defined policy and fundamental outlook. But it is difficult to see how the party can resuscitate itself in western Canada if it links itself up with groups that have nothing in common with it in policy and tradition and that would cut its throat when the first chance came.—Regina Leader-Post.

The Business Trend

No decisive trend is yet to be seen in Canadian business. In April, as earlier this year, favorable developments occurred in certain branches of economic activity, while at the same time there were a number of changes of a less constructive nature. When an attempt is made to balance such factors one against the other—as must be done in the making of a business index—the picture becomes one of indecision and of apparent stability. Thus the Cumulative Index of Business in Canada showed but a small change—falling from 92.3% of the 1925-1929 average in March to 91.9% in April. For a full twelve months, indeed, the Index has been fairly steady, varying between the limits of 91 and 94.

In the latest month, three of the component series showed only minor variations, none of which could be regarded as significant. The remaining two—Employment and Industrial Production—moved in opposite directions, the former losing ground and the latter gaining. It was because Employment is given a much heavier weighting than Industrial Production that the Cumulative Index declined slightly, rather than held its position.

The decrease in the Employment Index—from 105.8 in March to 104.3 in April—reflects the failure of employment to experience the usual seasonal expansion, in part because of the effects of the late spring. The lack of seasonal improvement was particularly noticeable in certain branches of manufacturing, such as the automobile industry, pulp and paper and the garment trades, while a considerable decline in employment occurred in the artificial silk industry. On the other hand, the full seasonal gain was shown by the primary iron and steel and lumber industries. Apart from the manufacturing group, the employment situation was less satisfactory in highway construction and transportation, though there was an appreciable upturn in retail trade.

The rise in Industrial Production—from 106.6 to 110.2—was largely the result of increases in a number of the export series. After adjustment for seasonal variation, exports of copper, nickel, zinc, asbestos and lumber rose sharply. In addition, foodstuff and iron and steel output increased considerably. But there were also a number of decreases. As in the case of employment, production in the newsprint and automobile industries fell off (after seasonal correction) while consumption of raw cotton was also lower.—The Bank of Nova Scotia.

The Passing Show

By J. S. COWPER

Russian statesmen are showing themselves astute bargainers with England's Tory leaders, over entry into the anti-aggression ring. Time was when Russia, fearful lest the capitalist powers should make war upon her before she had organized her own strength, would have welcomed the slightest assurance of goodwill. Now with the spectacle of Spain handed over to Fascism with the aid of the non-intervention pact—two of the non-intervening parties blocking aid to the Spanish government while the other two non-intervening parties sent armies, airplanes fleets, artillery, tanks, and battleships and submarines to aid the Fascists, Russian statesmen are rightly distrustful of the Chamberlain negotiators, and insist on binding alliances.

NEW POEMS BY MILLAY

While Nazi and Fascist leaders, and certain clerics, are rejoicing over the victory of the Nazi-Fascist-Moorish-armies over the people of Spain, an American woman poet, Edna St. Vincent Millay, has written an ode to Spanish freedom in her new volume of poems, "Huntsman, What Quarry?" The opening lines read:

Say that we saw Spain die. O splendid bull
  how well you fought.
Lost from the first.
  . . . the tossed, the replaced, the watchful torero with gesture elegant and spry,
Before the dark, the tiring but the unglazed eye deploying the bright cape,
Which hid for once not air, but the enemy
  indeed, the authentic shape,
A thousand of him, interminably into the ring released . . . the turning beast at length between converging colors caught.

If you respond to the lure of poetry, "Huntsman, What Quarry?" will move you.

A new Russian novelist, Nikolai Shpanoff, has written a novel of much significance, called "Stalinist Hawks." Shpanoff is an officer in the Soviet air force. His novel is about war in the air in which Russia and Germany are the principal combatants. Significance comes, because it is published by the military publishing house of the Red Army. On the day of its publication, May 21, it received three columns of laudatory review by the regimental commissar in the leading Moscow paper Pravda.

SEES RUSSIA FREE GERMANY

The novel, which thus comes with near-official authority, is interesting—apart from its thrilling action—for the role accorded Britain and France and for the insight into Shpanoff's idea of the course of such a war.

In such a situation as we have seen of late the scene is laid. Germany is continually making aggressions, yielded to by the French bourgeoisie and the British Tories. Unable to obtain help for resistance from London, France launches an all-Europaen non-aggression pact.

Cynically, the two partners in the Rome-Berlin axis join the peace pact, and immediately start sinking French ships and invading France's eastern frontiers. Angry demonstrations are made on the streets of Paris. In answer to French pleas for help, Moscow proclaims its fidelity to pledges and calls up its men.

Having thus got Russia committed to make war, reactionaries in the French government make a secret pact with Germany—the French army will not march if Germany attacks Soviet Russia. On Soviet Aviation Day, August 18, German airforces make a sudden attack on Smolensk, Minsk and Kieff—supported in the Kieff operations by land troops attacking through Poland.

That night 700 Soviet bombing planes take off across Poland. Deep into German territory they go, bombing German munitions centres. No bombs are dropped on the civilian populations, which come to look on the visits of the Soviet planes as assurances of their emancipation. The war ends with uprisings in Czecho-Slovakia and the German industrial centres, a revolt against Hitler and the formation of Popular Front governments in France and Germany.

You can read a lot of Spanish war history into "Stalinist Hawks." It explains Soviet distrust of the promoters of the Spanish non-intervention committee, lest they lure Russia into a war on their behalf and leave her to carry on the fight alone.

Nothing succeeds like success. Search through the files of Paris newspapers for March, 1815, chronicling Napoleon's escape from Elba, show the following crescendo of public opinion:

"The Tiger has escaped."
"The Monster has been three days at sea."
"The Wretch has landed at Frejus."

Religion Day By Day

By WILLIAM T. ELLIS

LIGHT THROUGH MANY WINDOWS

One conservative reader writes objecting to the use or mention of any translation of the Bible except the King James Version, probably meaning to include the Ussher chronology also! It does not occur to him that most of the Christians in Germany, France, Scandinavia and other lands do not even know of the existence of the King James Version. English-speaking Catholics use the Douai Version. Once in a debate upon an educated ministry, an illiterate preacher declared, "English was good enough for Peter and Paul, and English is good enough for me!"

There are various versions of the Bible which make clearer the real meaning of the original text than does the Authorized Version. Sincere students love to look upon "the pleasant fields of Holy Writ" through as many windows as possible.

No tougue can wholly tell the riches of Thy Truth, O Lord; but we would seek every real light upon Thy word. Amen.

Read Psalm 119:129-136.

Debt-Free Money

Editor, Bulletin: After reading an editorial in one of your contemporaries dealing with economic conditions in New Zealand, I wish to draw your attention to the fact that rising prices and ultimately economic depressions are the natural results of economic planning by governments, because the planners are, almost without exception, of the opinion that new money can be created and introduced into the economic setup without any limitations.

They always neglect the basic truth that if money is created faster than the production or consumption of goods is increased, prices will rise.

On the other hand, we have those who think that nobody should interfere with the present financial system, which cannot and does not distribute the goods as fast as their production can be increased.

As a healthy alternative I would suggest that our federal government institute a monetary mechanism which allows the community to consume what it is able and willing to produce.

In other words, finance consumption with debt-free money, issued at exactly the rate at which production of consumers' goods and services is increased by our growing productive power.

Production will then automatically take care of itself. J. H. SMITH.

Canadianism

Editor, Bulletin: We read and hear a great deal about Bolshevism, Fascism and other isms. Canadianism, it appears, believes in slum conditions. Her able bodied citizens in large numbers are not allowed to do useful work; they are killed riding freight trains and many of her youths instead of being healthy, happy and carefree, have faces wizened with care like people approaching the century mark. Are we to sleep on like Rip Van Winkle till some other nations show us in ways not to our liking? Liberty! What crimes are committed in thy name. A lot of bragging about our resources and freedom is done by orators and public opinion in this country reminds me of a rhyme.

"We are the same that our fathers have been, We see the same sights that our fathers have seen. We drink the same stream and we view the same sun. And run the same course our fathers have run."

A lot of people are like the Bourbon kings. They have forgotten nothing and learned nothing. A letter of this kind is not written in a spirit of sarcasm but to really help. Wake up, think; plan and then go ahead. The Canadian army became world famous in Flanders so let Canada wake up and abolish poverty, patronage and other wrongs and make us a nation that other nations will be proud of.

"STONEWALL JACKSON."

On This Date

By FRED WILLIAMS

This is the story of a Conservative convention that did not take place. In October, 1909, Mr. R. L. Borden, at a banquet at Ottawa, announced that it was his intention to summon a national convention of the Liberal-Conservative party during 1910. Accordingly, in January, 1910, he nominated a preparatory committee which was ratified by a party caucus on Jan. 24. Then Mr. G. H. Perley was named chairman and the date was fixed for June 15.

But soon the storm broke over the naval issue. Both Sir Wilfrid Laurier and Mr. Borden began to have trouble from Quebec, the latter especially so, and—now I quote from Sir Robert's memoirs:

"On March 1, Messrs. Lacoste, Chase, Casgrain, Beaubien, Emard, Coderre and others came to discuss matters with me. Quebec Conservatives, under the leadership of Mr. Monk, were refusing to follow my lead on the naval question. Mr. Monk had allied himself with M. Bourassa in opposition to any naval action, either by naval construction or contribution, and they were loudly proclaiming this view throughout Quebec. A party convention without the province of Quebec would have been a farce, and thus the convention was put off. The attitude thus assumed by Mr. Monk indicated a serious difference of opinion between the Conservatives of Quebec and those of the English-spaking provinces. The situation was full of embarrassment. On the one hand Quebec Conservatives affirmed that I had gone altogether too far; on the other hand Conservatives in the English-speaking provinces were firmly of the opinion that I had not gone far enough."

And so the national convention of the Liberal-Conservative party was abandoned, and did not take place until 1938. In the elections of 1911 Monk and his allies stumped Quebec as Nationalists, denouncing the Laurier navy and succeeded in scaring enough of the habitants to capture sufficient seats to defeat Sir Wilfrid. But as soon as the victory was won, Monk and his lieutenants became Conservatives again and demanded inclusion in the Borden cabinet. And they got it. When it was announced that F. D. Monk, L. P. Pelletier and W. B. Nantel had been taken into the ministry Mr. Borden was in for plenty of trouble. How could men who had campaigned as they had done in Quebec cooperate with men from other provinces who believed in Canadian defence? They couldn't and they didn't. Mr. Borden's troubles with his "followers" from Quebec were of his own making, and he admitted his error after he had retired from politics.

Sunshine Shafts

"Some men uses big words," said Uncle Eben, "de same as a turkey spreads his tail feathers. Dey makes an elegant impression, but dey don't reppersent no real meat."

Speaking of brave performances, one man took a taxi to the bankruptcy court and then, instead of paying his fare, invited the driver in as a creditor.

"You must be terribly thin!" exclaimed sister's small brother to the visiting suitor.

"Why, what makes you think so?" he asked in astonishment.

"Because mother said you would make a good match."

It is related that in a certain borough in the north of London one man who had been invited to enlist wrote as follows to the local recruiting committee: "I do not feel I ought to leave my wife while there are any single men left at home in this district."

LLOYDMINSTER

EIGHTY ATTEND SPRING MEETING RURAL DEANERY

The spring meeting of the Lloydminster rural deanery was held on Tuesday in the Northminster parish when clergy, lay delegates and representatives of the Women's Auxiliary to the number of 80 assembled from Maidstone, Carruthers, Lashburn, Neilburg, Marshall, Trafalgar, Lloydminster and Northminster. The day's proceedings opened and closed with divine service in the church, where the seating capacity was taxed to its limits. Holy communion was conducted by Rev. L. Freeman and Rev. J. R. Murray, and in the evening Rev. R. W. Cozens and Mr. R. N. Love officiated.

Business sessions were held at the home of Mrs. Creech, where splendid meals were served at noon by the Trafalgar W.A. and in the evening by the Northminster W.A.

The ladies' session elected as officers: Mrs. J. F. Haynes, president; Mrs. R. W. Cozens, vice-president; Mrs. C. E. Moore, secretary-treasurer, and Mrs. W. G. Davies, Dorcas secretary. Scripture lesson was read by Mrs. A. W. Atkinson, Mrs. L. Freeman conducted prayer and was organist for all occasions. Deanery reports were presented by Mrs. C. E. Moore and Mrs. W. G. Davies.

Clergy and lay delegates met under the presidency of Canon Haynes and elected Rev. A. W. Atkinson and E. P. Charles as deanery representatives on the diocesan executive committee.

Funeral service for Tom Fisher, Marshall farmer who succumbed to a heart attack while walking to his brother's farm last week, was held in St. John's Anglican church, Lloydminster on Monday afternoon. Rev. Canon F. J. Haynes officiated and interment took place in the Lloydminster cemetery.

GOLDFIELDS

Twenty-Five Men At Athona Mines Work Last Shift

Athona Mines' 25 employees worked their last shift Thursday as the camp closed for a period rumored to be one year. It is understood that lack of funds and no definite assurance of hydro power, being developed at Wellington lake for the Consolidated Smelters, will be available for Athona, are causes contributing to the shut-down.

Recent development of the property has disclosed a good grade of ore, $20 values being reported over a four-foot with and $10 per ton values over twenty foot widths. The company also reports a large body of low grade and it is probable that Athona will go ahead as soon as cheap power can be procured.

A number of the men laid off have secured employment with the Consolidated Smelters. Others have gone out. Goldfields business men admit that the shutdown will affect them considerably. Unlike C. M. & S., the Athona had no commissary. A watchman will be left to take care of the property.

NORTH BATTLEFORD

Suffering from injuries, full extent of which have not been revealed, Miss Mary Bousquet was admitted into hospital here early in the week following an automobile accident. The car in which Miss Bousquet was riding, a roadster driven by H. LaFurgey, careened across the highway after failing to make a curve and after traversing the ditch for some distance, somersaulted. The car was not seriously damaged. Dr. H. G. Garriock was summoned to the scene of the accident immediately and ordered Miss Bousquet taken to the hospital.

Not Dionne!

Three-year-old Marilyn Abramsky, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S. Abramsky, of Kingston, Ont., who bears a striking resemblance to the children of the world famed Dionne Quintuplets, is pictured here as she appeared at the home of her grandfather in Boston, Mass.

RED DEER

After living continuously in Red Deer since March, 1887, T. A. Gaetz is leaving here next week for British Columbia, where he has secured a position in the Chilliwack Valley. Mrs. Gaetz will remain here for the present.

From the earliest days of settlement here Mr. Gaetz has taken an active part in the life of the community. His long years of general store business earned him a host of friends. He served on the city council and on the board of trade in the earlier years and has always maintained a keen interest in sport. He was president of the baseball club for years, both in the professional and amateur days of the sport here.

James Bain, a farmer living about 14 miles south of Lloydminster, is a patient in the hospital suffering from a broken leg as the result of an accident when his team ran away recently with a heavy load. Mr. Bain was thrown off the load, causing the injury.

The Calf Club field day, held at Hillmond, 20 miles north-east of Lloydminster and attended by a large number of spectators, was the first of its kind held there. The boys and the one lone girl member numbered 15 in all and certainly showed their skill in feeding and handling the calves. Walter Harbin's calf was the outstanding exhibit and topped the list. Fay Noble made a good showing against the boys, winning second place in the judging of the cattle. Mr. Ramsey of the University of Saskatchewan was in charge. Fred Patmore is the leader of the club.

LACOMBE

LAST RITES HELD PIONEER FARMER LACOMBE AREA

Funeral services for Thomas Reynolds, 74, pioneer farmer of the Gull Lake and Lacombe districts, were held recently in the Bentley Community Hall, with Rev. W. E. Herbert of Lacombe officiating. Mr. Reynolds came to the United States from England at an early age and later moved to Saskatchewan, arriving in Lacombe in 1903. He took up a homestead shortly after just south of Gull Lake and resided there until his death which followed an illness of several months. His wife passed away about three weeks ago.

Surviving Mr. Reynolds are one daughter, Mrs. P. Damant of Alder Flats, Alta., and a son, Lewis, at home.

Rev. C. D. Powell, of Mountain Park, has been appointed to fill the vacancy in Morningside United church caused by the resignation of Rev. J. A. Perrie, who leaves next week to take charge of services in Erskine church, Edmonton. Induction services for the new pastor will take place in Fairview church, near Lacombe, Friday, June 30.

Arrangements are being completed at nearby Gull Lake for an eight-day conference to be held there by members of the Edmonton group of the Oxford movement, opening Saturday, July 1. The group has secured accommodation at Aspen Beach, on the south side of the lake, and will make its headquarters at the Cozy tourist camp.

The village of Gull Lake is having the beach and the beach road thoroughly cleaned up and has engaged a caretaker to patrol the beach and cottage area during the tourist season.

WETASKIWIN

The George School of Dancing presented their annual Revue in the Elk's Hall, Wetaskiwin on Tuesday afternoon and evening. The program was one of a military theme throughout and the hall was appropriately decorated in red, white and blue streamers. The school is under the able directorship of Miss Jean George and Mr Robert George.

Accompanists for the evening were Mrs. C. Condie on the violin and Miss Isabelle George at the piano.

The following pupils participated:

NORTH RED DEER

Because a robin had nested in his fanning mill, Mr. James Bower, a farmer, 1 mile south of Red Deer, bought cleaned seed from the neighbors though he had plenty of good seed grain himself, rather than disturb the bird. The robin's family have now grown to be large enough to fend for themselves and flown away unaware of the financial loss to Mr. Bower, who has almost 200 acres in crop.

INNISFAIL

Although thousands of miles away yet the departure of the King and Queen at Halifax Thursday was marked by the assembling of the school children during the morning in the large auditorium of the new high school. The final message of Their Majesties was broadcasted with fine reception.

RIMBEY

Mr. and Mrs. L. S. Cutler are spending this week in Calgary and at Lethbridge. At the latter city Mr. Cutler, who is mayor of the village of Rimbey, will attend the convention of municipal districts opening there on Thursday.

H. N. Taylor, proprietor of the Cottage Hotel at Rimbey motored to Calgary on Monday to attend the communication of the Grand Lodge of the A.F. & A.M. in session there. He is representating the Kitchener Lodge at Rimbey.

Dr. H. E. Halpin motored to Edmonton over the week-end and brought Mrs. Halpin and their daughter Constance who had been recovering in the city from injuries sustained when she was struck by a car on June 2 in Edmonton.

RIMBEY

Mrs. Edith Rogers, M.L.A., of Ponoka, attended a meeting of ratepayers of Last West municipal district held in the Lanesta school recently, at which the following resolutions were carried:

That the ratepayers of municipal district of Last West No. 431 will not pay more than 12 mills or the set mill rate in other municipal districts within the Ponoka enlarged school division, levied for school purposes.

That the council of the municipal district be compelled to take advantage of the provincial government's $2.00 to $1.00 policy in respect to working out arrears of taxes.

Following recent rains, crops, which have been making very little progress due to the dry top-soil, have been growing rapidly and present conditions give prospects of an excellent crop. Gardens are doing well. Dirt roads are extremely muddy in the district and several are impassable. They will be very rough for some time.

Pageant Nova Scotia's Birth Re-enacted for King, Queen Thursday

By THOMAS WAYLING
Edmonton Bulletin Staff Correspondent

HALIFAX, N.S., June 16—King George VI and 50,000 of his Canadian subjects, Thursday looked back over Nova Scotia's three hundred years to seeing James I and 50 of his subjects create the Royal province.

The north side of Citadel Hill had disappeared under the bright colors of a multitude of Nova Scotia folk. At the base of the hill a platform was set for the Royal visitors, before which was set a replica of Edinburgh castle.

Before the castle was re-enacted the pageant of Nova Scotia's birth; the granting of permission to Sir William Alexander to create a province in a new world. "There is a new France, a new England, why should there not be a new Scotland?" Sir William asked the King. Whereupon James I called it Nova Scotia.

LAND GRANT

Because a handful of soil must pass with a land grant, Sir William hit upon an expedient. The King declared a square plot of land before the castle to be forever a part of Nova Scotia. From this a man at arms cut a small piece of turf which the King handed to Sir William in token of the grant.

It was a colorful pageant but it interested the King and Queen. King James passed out of the picture as the broadcaster announced that the King had died. His Majesty laughed at the disappearing King who looked very much alive.

There was also a chuckle when the piece of turf was cut and handed over. Some one called out "replace all divots". The hirsute adornments of the Scots were luxuriant and there was a voice in the crowd asking for Red Tasse the King's barber.

The living hillside kept Nova Scotia's word to give the King and Queen a welcome they would never forget. When Their Majesties left the crowd broke bounds. A living wave rolled over the press stand engulfing it and rolled past to race over the turf to the narrow red carpet covered board walk down which Their Majesties passed.

LIVING SEA

The Boy Scouts forgot all discipline and instead of holding the line sped round the Royal platform and beat the eastern wave. The Girl Guides were not to be outdone. They swarmed up the Royal platform from the rear and thronged in behind Their Majesties. Police whistles shrilled in vain. The lines disappeared and Their Majesties walked through a living sea.

The crowds descended the hillside in multitudes and hopelessly milled around. Yet in the centre of this human maelstrom was a quiet peaceful backwater, a public garden, the gates of which had been locked against all save the Royal party and for a time there they rested.

Later they resumed their program, but the memory of Citadel Hill will be vivid when much of the present tour has been forgotten. In all the tumult, none touched Their Majesties. They were neither jostled nor crowded. Above all rose the sweet voices of a boys' and girls' choir singing "Will Ye No Come Back Again" and other songs from over the Scottish border.

Alberta Overdoes Seed Grain Growth Report Declares

VICTORIA, June 16. — Overproduction of registered seed wheat in Alberta last year brought hardships to seed-growers of that province, according to a report presented by the Alberta branch to the Canadian Seed Growers' Association in convention here Wednesday.

Reports from seven other branches—British Columbia, Saskatchewan, Manitoba, Ontario, Quebec, Prince Edward Island and Nova Scotia—indicated more satisfactory conditions, although wet weather spoiled seed crops in eastern Canada.

CANON MARTIN MADE BISHOP SASKATCHEWAN

Elected At Sessions Of Rupert's Land Synod

WINNIPEG, June 16.—Canon Henry D. Martin of St. George's church, Winnipeg, was elected Bishop of Saskatchewan at the sessions of the Rupert's Land synod of the Anglican church here Thursday.

He succeeds Walter Burd, who resigned on account of ill health. Since the resignation Archdeacon George Headley Holmes of Prince Albert has been in charge of the Saskatchewan diocese.

BORN IN LONDON

Canon Martin, who is expected to announce his acceptance shortly, was born in London, England, studied at Glasgow, Scotland, and graduated at Wycliffe College, Toronto. He was first associated with St. James Cathedral, Toronto, and later St. Luke's church, Saint John, N. B.

He came to Winnipeg in 1914 and was acting rector of Holy Trinity church, but in 1916 accepted a call to St. George's church, succeeding Rev. J. J. Roy, who had been rector there for 30 years. In 1932 he was created a canon.

CERTAIN RIGHTS GRANTED

The synod, in its business sessions granted Rev. E. F. Robins, for many years Bishop of Athabaska, certain rights he had asked for in connection with the pension board. He had been forced to return to England on account of his wife's health and brought up the request at the present sessions.

It was decided that delegates to the synod sessions would be reduced. Henceforth dioceses sending seven delegates will be represented by four and those sending three will be lowered to two.

The synod despatched a message of farewell to the King and Queen, who sailed from Halifax yesterday for Newfoundland and home.

OLD SHOES FOR BRAND NEW IS UNFAIR TRADE

Mike Glubish told police Thursday he didn't think he had a square deal. Some person had entered his room, 47 Astor House, and stolen his brand new shoes. The thief left an old pair in exchange. At any rate, if Mike gets his shoes back they will be broken in for him. He may try trailing the thief by the squeak.

Social Services

Resolution to co-ordinate all social services in Edmonton passed at a meeting of the Lion's club held Thursday. Members favored the resolution insofar as it did not interfere with the administration of the club's sunset cottages for old people.

Takes Another Award

"Chinese Patriot," above, an artistic study by Helmuth Goertz, Edmonton photographic artist, has again won honors, this time at the Springfield, Ohio, salon. On the picture is the seal awarded for the third grand prize in the exhibition. This study had been previously exhibited at the 31st Scottish National Exhibition at Kilmarnock, the sixth Canadian at Hamilton, Ont., the Edinburgh Exhibition, and the Shropshire Exhibition in Shropshire, Eng. At all exhibitions it was hung on the line and given high praise. The picture is a study of Mah Shee, aged Edmonton Chinese.

Flying Housemaid Here For Summer's Holiday: To Visit World's Fair

The northland's "Flying Housemaid" has come "outside" again for a summer visit in Edmonton before going to the New York World's Fair next fall. She is Jean May Rice, pretty 18-year-old girl and she earned the name "Flying Housemaid" when she contracted with bachelor-miners at Goldfields to keep their cabins clean. She makes her trips to work by air.

Interested in her novel method of making a livelihood, Robert Ripley offered her a contract to appear in his "Odditorium" at the World's Fair.

Miss Rice flew to the city and is trying to get accustomed to the bustling activity of this "Gateway to the North," a noisy contrast to the comparative quiet of the mining town.

Going to Goldfields with her father in 1935, the "Flying Housemaid," who was born at Grande Prairie and is of French-Canadian descent, soon saw the need of the feminine hand in bachelors' cabins and for so much a month she dusts and scrubs and washes. In order to cover her work in the scattered settlement she travels by air.

When she left the north, Miss Rice had 22 cabins on her house-cleaning list, some of them 50 or 60 miles from the town.

Maybe It's Boss Who Needs Help Asserts Expert

TORONTO, June 16. — Executives who bully their employees often do so because of their own badly adjusted personality or psychoneurosis, Dr. F. S. Parney of the pension and national health department, Ottawa, told the Canadian public health association Wednesday.

He said a survey among 35,000 federal civil servants showed about 20 per cent of these were "problem employees" and he thought the same rate would apply in any large industrial group.

"Executives and supervisors also are human beings and therefore not immune to neurotic or personality difficulties," Dr. Parney said.

"Whenever these develop, unfortunate effects are apt to be reflected in the sub-staff even to the extent of nervous breakdowns due to mental bullying.

"Sometimes it is the supervisor that needs help or treatment."

Both English, French Canadians More Loyal As Result Royal Visit

By THOMAS WAYLING
Edmonton Bulletin Staff Correspondent

MONTREAL, June 16.—The Royal Visit has made both English and French people of Canada feel more loyal to the British Empire but it hasn't made the French any more willing to send a Canadian army overseas in case of war.

The psychological institute of Montreal interviewed one thousand people in Montreal following the Royal Visit and asked a series of questions. Half of the interviews were English and half French and men and women in all parts of the city and all walks of life were addressed.

To the question "has the Royal visit made you feel more loyal to the British Empire?" 53 percent of the English speakng interviewed said yes and 36 percent were non-committal.

OVERSEAS ARMY

"Would you favor sending a Canadian army overseas in case England goes to war, 59 percent of the English said yes, 22 percent no and 18 percent non-committal. The French were 66 percent against it, 33 percent in favor and one percent non-committal.

"Do you think the United States will be more willing to assist Great Britain in war as a result of the Royal visit?" This brought 58 percent affirmatives from the English-speaking, 11 percent negative and 30 percent non-committal. The French Canadians were 56 percent in the belief the United States would be more willing, 30 percent did not think so and 14 percent did not know.

IN LOVE WITH QUEEN

The French fell more deeply in love with the Queen than the English for 86 percent of the interviewees of French extraction said yes to the question: "Do you believe the Queen stole the show?" only 50 percent of the English felt that way. Both French and English were of the same opinion (57 and 59 percent) that the Prime Minister should have travelled across country with the Royal party.

The French meant to see the King and Queen and they did. Everyone of the thousand interviewees saw the King and Queen; 92 per cent were delighted with the Royal procession and only 8 per cent were dissatisfied. Only 77 percent of the English interviewees saw the procession, 80 per cent were pleased and 20 per cent were dissatisfied.

The French were also more satisfied (90 per cent) that the newspapers handled the story in a satisfactory manner and 84 per cent also approved the CBC radio broadcasts. Only 81 per cent of the English speaking thought the story well handled by the newspapers and 77 per cent approved the CBC.

UNEXPECTED ENTHUSIASM

The survey added strength to the belief that the personality of Their Majesties aroused unexpected enthusiasm. To the question "Do you find yourself more enthusiastic about the King's visit than you expected to be?" 62 per cent of the English and 50 per cent of the French answered in the affirmative.

There were 65 per cent English and 57 per cent French who believed the Royal tour should be a regular feature and 65 per cent English and 46 per cent French believed Their Majesties should establish an official residence in Canada.

NATIONAL MEMORIAL

The French want the visit commemorated. There were 79 per cent of them in favor of a national memorial to the King's visit and 34 per cent of the English thought it should be commemorated.

To the question "Do you think the Royal visit has helped Canadian business generally," 69 percent of the English and 74 per cent of the French answered in the affirmative. Twelve percent English and 17 per cent French did not think so, and 13 per cent English and 9 per cent French did not know.

HER MAJESTY IS ART STUDENT OF COLLOQUIALISMS

HALIFAX, June 16—Queen Elizabeth revealed herself during the Royal tour as an art student of North American colloquialisms. "Swell" and "You bet" are two of the typical expressions Her Majesty garnered.

In the vernacular, the Queen nearly floored Colonel Mark Kimberling, New Jersey state police superintendent, with "I think they're swell." She had remarked the state troopers appeared on a par with the Royal Canadian Mounted Police.

When a bronzed Scottish veteran at Paris, Ont., shouted, "Will ye no come back again?" the Queen, smiling on the rear platform of the Royal train, replied: "You bet I will, my laddie."

ALMOST CRIPPLED WITH RHEUMATISM

Improved Greatly When He Tried Kruschen

There has just come to our notice a case of grand relief from severe rheumatic pains. The seriousness of the man's condition and the step that led to his ultimate recovery, are described in the following letter:—

"For several years I suffered from rheumatism. I had all my teeth out, and still suffered. A year ago I lay in hospital for fourteen weeks, almost crippled. When I got home I continued to take medicine, but began to go down again. A friend of mine asked me to try Kruschen Salts, and I am very pleased to be able to say I have been on the mend ever since." —H.P.

Two of the salts in Kruschen are the most effectual solvents of uric acid known to medical science. They swiftly dull the sharp edges of the crystals — the cause of pain and stiffness — and often convert them into a harmless solution, which is then expelled through the natural channels.

What To Do

How soon after a bride and her husband return from their honeymoon should a reception be held? Who receives with the bride?

MRS. P. L. D.

Answer—When a bride and groom return home after the honeymoon they suit themselves about when they entertain. There is a tradition about a reception on the wedding day, but none of necessity afterward. Wait until you are comfortably settled and then send out your cards for whatever sort of party you want to give. Ask any one you please to assist you; some one of your family or your husband's family if they live near you would be excellent. Don't have too many hostesres and don't have your party too large—rather give several "at homes."

BRIDE ON A BUDGET

By JANET DORAN

CAST OF CHARACTERS

IRIS IVES, a radiant bride who thought love came first and money could take care of itself.

BART WHITTAKER, a righteous bridegroom who looked at the bank book first and his wife afterward.

Yesterday: Iris buys another gown, pretends it is an old one, and convinces the proud Bart. But the gown means more trouble for it stirs in Iris a hatred for Bart's budgetting.

CHAPTER VII

THAT week of the Fourth of July, Iris tried to make Bart buy a summer suit.

"Everyone else is wearing summer things, Bart, and you just can't go on wearing a blue business suit to dances all summer. And King's store is having a big sale. You could get a nice gray suit for a very decent price right now."

"Can't afford it, honey. Got some summer merchandise coming in and it will take everything I've got to swing the deal."

"Then get one and pay for it a little each week, Bart."

"Never!" he exploded, and stopped at her frightened expression. "Oh what's the use, Iris? You know how I am about debts and charge accounts and time payments. We're getting along all right the way we are, and we don't go out enough to warrant laying a lot of money on clothes right now."

"We'd go if you cared enough to dress decent the way other men do, Bart!"

He glanced at her curiously, and his mouth tightened but he didn't say anything. If he thought they couldn't afford the movies, dances and parties they went to now, let alone any further gadding, Iris couldn't tell from his guarded expression.

"If you don't begin to dress like other business men do, Bart, everyone's going to think you're not successful or smart. All the men I know count their appearance 50 per cent of the battle."

"I'm not buying a suit on time payments, Iris, and I can't afford to get one now. I'm sorry. You know I told you long before we married, that a financial handicap was no fun."

"It needn't be a handicap, Bart, if you wouldn't be so stubborn," Iris flared. "John Kent buys his suits and clothing on a budget plan."

"And the Kents do not even own their furniture. They live in a rented flat, pay for last year's car out of this year's budgeting, and if anything ever happened to either of them where would they be?"

"Nothing ever does, Bart! I wish you wouldn't torture yourself all the time conjuring up catastrophies that never happen. They make a lame excuse for the way you choose to dress."

The sultry thunder-showery air outside became a sissy imitation to the brittle, crackling temper Iris exuded from then on.

So Bart capitulated. He bought a pair of gray flannel slacks at Nothrum's, the poor working man's department store, off Railroad Square, out of the high rent district. He bought a shirt to go with the trousers and had the jacket to his blue suit cleaned. It made a fairly passable outfit except for the fact that wearing the garments every time they went anywhere annoyed Iris even more than the no-new-suit crisis had.

"Everyone thinks it is all you own, Bart," she said irritably.

"Who wants them to think anything different? What's wrong with having only one dress outfit, Iris? At least I own this."

"That grey suit would have given you four ensembles, Bart! Changing coats and trousers with your blue suit."

"Look, honey. I'm not buying that suit. Now forget it, will you? You don't know anything about business, and I do. So let me manage this."

Iris did. She decided it was too hot to eat. Too hot to cook or prepare meals, either. And of course it was. The July heat was the breath of a blast furnace and the girls staying on in the dean's office that summer were all glad his wife had held out for the cruise. Things were bad enough, with the heat wilting everyone, without the dean fussing over everything, scolding, questioning, protesting through each day.

"I could die," Iris murmured, lying flat across her small maple twin bed with only a filmy printed dimity negligee over her lingerie. "I never want to think of food again."

"I'll see if I can collect the makings of a salad, Iris. You rest." She grinned, when he left the room. There wasn't so much as enough to feed a chickadee in the refrigerator. She had looked, putting away the breakfast things. There were no crackers, and only the skimmed remainder of the quart of milk. Nor was there any bread.

Bart came back into the bedroom a while later, and sat down in the chintz chair. His lean dark face glistened with perspiration, and tie hung over the dresser, his collar open at the throat. His cuffs were folded back flat in neat folds to his elbows. The dark wavy hair lay sleek and moist, now, under the siege of breathless heat and he sat quite still by the open window, looking out. Waiting for a breath of air stirring that never came.

"Look, honey, this working and keeping house is too much for you," he began diffidently, "I didn't count on you working all summer long. I thought when you said the dean was going away on the trip, that you'd be able to rest through the hot months."

"I'm all right, Bart. It's trying to do all the cooking and cleaning that gets me down. I'll be all right when it's cooler."

"Why don't you give up your job and just keep house, Iris? We'd manage. With the budget, we get by for $12 on our food, and the rent is only $8 each week. That leaves $30—"

"I couldn't quit my job if I wanted to Bart, so forget it please."

"You haven't signed a contract have you, Iris?"

"No; I can't quit, though."

"You'd get to love it, honey; you'd have time on your hands after a while. When you got things down to a system. And there'd be none of this coming home to an empty pantry and a bare table nights."

"I'll get your supper, Bart. I thought you weren't hungry, either. I don't see how anyone can want to eat much in heat like this." And she yanked out a printed linen dress and matching sandals, "Believe me, if I had the money, I'd go somewhere to eat in weather like this. No food to smell cooking, no dishes to wash, no cleaning up."

"O. K. We'll eat out."

"No!" Iris insisted stubbornly, "I know what that means. You'll hate every mouthful I eat. You . . . you hate taking me to dinner. You never do any more. Because you'd rather save the money."

"Iris, don't say such things. Honey—what's come over you, these days? What's happened to our—romance?"

"You did it, Bart! You were so crazy to save money. You didn't care what happened to me, you didn't care what you did to me. Just so you could save that money each week."

"Iris, it's because I do care what happens to you, because I want to make sure my wife doesn't have to work, if anything should happen to me, make sure you've a home over you, and an income when we're old, in case I can't work, or something happens to me, that I try to do this."

"If you care so much tbout the future it seems to me you could care a little about the present, Bart."

He stared at her perplexedly. Her pretty, petulant face was angry and hurt and the heat had blurred her powder, rouge and make-up to unlovely streaks. Yet—she believed this. She believed it so much she was making herself miserable over it.

Sighing, he turned to the closet and took down his coat. She didn't understand. She was too young to understand, too inexperienced with life to know.

That was why she couldn't realize that people like they must prepare for their distant old age and incompetence, by setting aside some of their savings all through their years of competence and strength. To her, old age, and the future took care of themselves. To him, they were created by careful planning, by thrift, and saving and self-denial. By extra work and extra care.

"It's all right, honey. We'll eat out until its cooler. Then we'll make it all up. Don't worry."

"Bart, Bart, you're not pretending? You really mean it? Oh, Bart, I've dreamed of the heavenly luxury of coming home here and having just my bath and changing into fresh things, after a hard day's work, then off to dine somewhere and dance. We had such fun. It was almost like a honeymoon, Bart."

"I know, honey. Get your duds on." And the words were tinder burning a bridge behind the Bart Whittakers.

JASPER JOTTINGS

By FAY PARKER

JASPER, June 16—The brilliant display of mid-summer flowers is all that remains to remind us that the King and Queen of the greatest Empire in the world, spent a happy day in Jasper Park. The lovely "Outlook Cabin" where they enjoyed the quiet privacy of an ordinary couple stands with drawn blinds, but the garden flowers still bloom in the beauty that called forth delighted exclamations from the Queen. It was here that the gardener was personally thanked by her when summoned by Royal command. Humming birds in flocks now dart here and there among the blossoms, gathering the nectar and revelling in this unusual privilege. That both the King and Queen were delighted with their Jasper visit was very evident and on leaving, Queen Elizabeth remarked: "We have been very happy here, and I only hope that we will be able to come back to this lovely spot with my two daughters, and stay for as long as we can in this little cabin."

Hardy native flowers are now to be found everywhere along the highways and woodland paths in Jasper Park, and their brilliant colorings add a pleasing contrast to the green of trees in summer foliage and low growing plants. Even close to the melting snow the alpine plants are bursting into bloom as if they know the season is all too short and but a few months hence that retreating snowline will again cover them. June in Jasper is the month of flowers!

A group of players, members of the Jasper Tennis Club, motored to Edson last Sunday and successfully competed in many events with players of that town. Those who made the trip were: Miss Vada McMahan, Miss Vivienne Lavery, Mrs. J. Horton, Mrs. F. Boyd, Howard Boyd, Jack Horton, and Ron Gurney.

June skiing was enjoyed last week on the Athabaska Glacier by a party that travelled over the Banff end of the Highway. Benno Rybisku of St. Anton, Alberge, Austria, Rupert Edwards and Henry Fuez of Banff, and Winston Pote of Boston, Mass., spent several days skiing and taking motion pictures of the sport on the great Columbia Icefield.

Splendid catches of speckled trout are coming out of Beaver Lake, the popular fly fishing spot of the Maligne area. The cool weather has kept the waters of the streams and lakes from becoming muddy, but the water level is a little below normal for this time of year.

A most interesting Jasper visitor is Mme. Auguste Shuermans of Brussells, Belgium, who is the guest of her niece, Mrs. Frank Wood. Mme. Shuermans is visiting America for the first time and is finding it an exciting experience. Arriving in New York she visited the World's Fair, and made several stops across Canada. After leaving Jasper she will return to the eastern seaboard via San Francisco, Los Angeles, Grand Canyon, Salt Lake City and other points of interest in the States. Meanwhile she is finding Jasper Park even more lovely than the Alps with which she is very familiar.

Turkish towels need no ironing—simply shake them when dry to fluff up the pile. Then press off the hems with a warm iron. Any loose ends or pulled threads should be clipped off even with the pile—never pulled. A firm, tight underweave, close even pile, firm selvages and well-finished hems should be assurance of long-wearing towels.

The whitefish is light blue; blackfish are gray; and redfish are brown. Many other so-called fish are not fish at all, such as the starfish, jellyfish, devilfish and dogfish. A catfish does not look or act like a cat; a seacow does not give any milk; crawfish have no craw; sealions do not look like lions, and starfish are not shaped like stars. These are only a few of the erroneous names often applied to fish and water inhabitants.

Resident Of Whitehorse Visits Here

Resident of the Far North for four years, Mrs. Lionel Vines, of Whitehorse, Yukon, and an Edmonton visitor at the present time, has never seen the "midnight sun." Chatting with a reporter from the Edmonton Bulletin on Friday morning, Mrs. Vines laughingly made this confession. "To see it at the height of its glory, one must go to Dawson City and climb the mountain there. This is usually done by the entire population on June 21, the longest day in the year. I have never been in Dawson in June, although I have been there at other times, and so, you see, I've been out of luck."

Mrs. Vines arrived in this city on Wednesday to spend a month with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Neville White. She has been living in Whitehorse during the past four years, where her husband is stationed as pilot in connection with the air service operated by the White Pass and Yukon Railway.

Although "home" for Mrs. Vines will always be the north, she is enjoying her visit "outside," renewing acquaintances with Edmonton friends. There is much social life in Whitehorse, and Mr. and Mrs. Vines have many friends among the young married set.

At the end of the railroad, Whitehorse is the starting point for much of the air and water transportation in the north, with a population as high as 500 people during the summer months and about 200 during the balance of the year.

Bride Marries In Gown Of White Silk

Wearing her mother's wedding gown, a lovely hand embroidered frock in pineapple white silk, Miss Margaret Joan Allan was a lovely figure at her marriage to Mr. Kenneth George Thompson, solemnized at the evening hour of eight o'clock on Thursday. Very full skirt, with old fashioned bodice and very full sleeves, fitting tightly below the elbow and a waist length jacket were attractive features of her gown. Her only ornament was a cameo, an heirloom in the bridegroom's family. In her hair she wore a halo in silk embroidered net studded with pearls and carried pink roses and lilies-of-the-valley in her bouquet.

Canadians Took King And Queen To Their Hearts For Varied Reasons

By THOMAS WAYLING
Edmonton Bulletin Staff Correspondent

MONTREAL, June 16.—"What charmed you most about Their Majesties King George VI and Queen Elizabeth during their recent stay?" That is the question folk are asking one another these days. By this time the King and Queen have commenced their ocean journey home, but the memory of their happy stay among Canadians will live long in the memories of young and old. The pleasing manner of Their Majesties, the friendliness and charm of the Queen impressed the French Canadians more than anything else. They were also greatly impressed with Their Majesties way of greeting people.

The English speaking Canadians were most touched by Their Majesties mixing with the veterans and the crowd in Ottawa.

INSTITUTE QUERY

The Psychological Institute of Montreal queried a number of people in that city following the Royal Visit across Canada. The reactions they received were varied and to the point.

Their Majesties visit and sympathy with the crippled soldiers in Toronto were given by a number of people as having impressed them most.

Other favorite factors with respect to Their Majesties were: The fact that the Queen had no make up on, the way they mixed with the crowd, their natural graciousness and their democratic bearing, their unselfish efforts to follow schedule. The King resting his arm on the Queen's shoulder at Westmount station. Their Majesties riding in the rain at Winnipeg. Their Majesties turning back to let a girl take a picture. Their walk in the woods at Sylmer alone.

Playing with the quints and the Queen stopping to talk with an Ottawa child. Their visit to sick veterans, their visit to the Indians and the Queen speaking to a crippled child at a station.

MINE OWN IMPRESSIONS

To these may be added my own vivid impressions chief of which is the King raising his top hat to a little girl beside a garden path in Mount Vernon. The Queen bewildered in Banff Springs hotel corridor and saying: "Now how does one get out of this place," and the Queen herself opening the door at her Jasper Park cottage to admit a gardener she had sent for to compliment on his flowers.

The King chatting with a Sub-Lieutenant on H.M.S. Skeena, the Queen refusing an umbrella on the grandstand at Winnipeg. Their Majesties leaving Halifax dignitories to wait while they said goodbye to their train crew.

Her Majesty accompanying the King on a dark and somewhat risky mine expedition. The list could go on interminably. What's your most vivid impression?

Queen Wears Blue Costume For Travel

HALIFAX, June 16.—Happy, sunburned and smiling Queen Elizabeth said good-bye to Canada Thursday wearing her favorite color—blue. She was dressed in the same simple short-jacketed ensemble chosen at Vancouver and for her boat trip to Victoria.

Her shoes were white kid pumps marked at the toes with narrow bows and her high felt hat, tied with coarse blue and white veiling, was pinned to her hair with a long hat-pin. Her gloves were white and she wore pearls and her diamond maple-leaf pin, a gift from the King before they left for their Canadian tour.

Lady Tweedsmuir, wife of Canada's Governor-General, who arrived Tuesday to bid bon voyage to Their Majesties, wore a dull blue-green crepe gown girdled with purple satin ribbon. Her hat was a tiny navy blue veiled straw and she wore a silver fox cape.

Tall and stately, the Queen's ladies-in-waiting framed the small Queen as the Royal party waved from the decks of the high Empress of Britain. Lady Nunburnholme wore a fitted woollen coat in aquamarine shade with matching mannish fedora.

Lady Katherine Seymour wore a beige redingote over a black gown and her hat was a high pancake model in black straw.

Dorothy Dix Says:

To marry or not to marry—that's the question that young men are debating in ever-increasing numbers these days. They can't make up their minds whether it is better to be tied to an ever-loving wife, as Mr. Damon Runyon says, or to have many girl friends to whom they can give the air, without having to pay alimony when they lose their taste for them, and whether home cooking is worth the price if a man has to pay for it by punching the domestic time clock on the dot.

One of these bewildered youths, who is torn between saying "I will" at the altar and side-stepping the whole domestic business, puts the case up to me.

He says: "I can't decide whether a life as a bachelor or a married man is best for a man. I have fallen in love with the finest girl in the world and she loves me so much that anything I do is right with her just because I do it. She is pretty and sweet, always looks trim and neat and well dressed, and she is a good cook. She loves children and she never nags. When I don't date her for a while and run around with other girls she doesn't fuss about it or reproach me for it. She is the kind of girl that older people approve of, and when she passes by a crowd if a boy is telling a putrid joke he stops. Now here is the question: Will I be happier if I marry this girl, who has the soul of an angel and who will make a perfect wife and whom I love and respect, or be a bachelor and run around with a wild gang and have a good time?"

Whether a man is happier married or single depends, of course, upon the man himself and the pattern of life he enjoys following. If his idea of a good time is being a roisterer, a drunkard and a roue, then undoubtedly single blessedness should be his choice. That leaves him free to follow his bent, with no angry woman waiting up to deliver a curtain lecture when he rolls in with the milkman and no necessity of explaning his affair with a platinum blonde to a jealous wife. There is no denying that a wife cramps the style of a playboy.

But if a man wants to amount to something in the world and his idea of happiness consists in doing well the work that comes to his hand and being helpful to his fellew creatures, then he is better off married than single, unless he is unlucky enough to get a nagger or a shrew or a tyrant for a wife. Statistics show that married men live longer than bachelors because they lead more regular lives and because of the way their wives take care of them—not letting them get their feet wet and making them go to see the doctor about little ailments that the men themselves would neglect. DOROTHY DIX.

Today's Popular Design

INTERESTING CROCHET-STITCH DESIGNS

Cross-stitch is one of the most fascinating of all the needlework stitches and one of the easiest to execute. These hot iron transfer figures offer a varied selection of motifs which may be used in innumerable ways. The methods of transportation form an interesting group which may be used for wall hangings, pillows or for the corners of a bedspread in a boy's room.

How To Overcome Piles And Rectal Soreness

If you are annoyed with itching piles or rectal soreness, do not neglect the same or run the risk of an operation. Any itching, soreness or painful passage of stool, is nature's warning and proper treatment should be secured at once. For this purpose get from Merrick Drug Stores or any druggist, a package of Hemroid and use as directed. This formula, which is used internally, quickly relieves the itching and soreness and aids in healing the sore, tender spots. Hemroid is a physician's prescription and is highly recommended. It is easy to use and it seems the height of folly for anyone to risk an operation when a simple remedy which is so pleasant to use may be had at such a reasonable cost.

Smart Camp Cook Will Always Take The Cake

Make your frosting before you leave for the country, store it in a jar, and spread it on cookies or cake when you are ready to use it. Fruit, candy and dates stuffed with cream cheese make first-class camp desserts, too.

By MRS. GAYNOR MADDOX

Week-end desserts must prove that you can eat your cake and still have plenty of time for fun. In other words, don't bake a cake, just eat it. Take along a plain cake, or else buy one on the road. There are many things you can do over the week-end to give that plain cake a fancy appearance. Cookies, too, lend themselves to camp magic.

VERSATILE CHEESE BIG MENU ASSET

A large container of cottage cheese has many dessert possibilities. Mixed with a little cream, slightly sweetened, it can be spread between plain chocolate cookies. Those are good dessert sandwiches. Or else mixed with chopped nuts, the smooth cottage cheese can be stuffed into packaged dates.

This same creamy cheese mixture will take cut up strawberries without a sigh of protest. Then spread this mixture between layers of cake. You've got something there! And after that, spread chocolate frosting over the cake—a royal feast in the forest.

Of course, you won't make the frosting over the week-end. You will have it with you in a jar, ready to spread. Many confectioners now sell special frosting in jars. Or else you can make it at home before you start out, and use it in the country on cakes or cookies.

CHOCOLATE FROSTING

(Makes enough to cover top and sides of two 9-inch layers, or top and sides of loaf cake.)

Two squares unsweetened chocolate, 1 1-3 cups sweetened condensed milk, 1 tablespoon water.

Melt chocolate in top of double boiler. Add sweetened condensed milk. Stir over boiling water 5 minutes, until it thickens. Add water. Cool. Spread on cold cake, or turn into glass jar, cover, and keep until ready to use. This week-end frosting will not harden.

Week-End Menus

BREAKFAST: Cantaloupe, scrambled eggs with bacon, bread and butter, jelly, coffee, milk.

LUNCHEON: Canned vegetable soup, liverwurst sandwiches, apple and peanut butter sandwiches, dates stuffed with cheese, tea, milk.

DINNER: Cold canned corned beef, boiled potatoes, buttered peas, canned peaches, chocolate frosted cake, coffee, milk.

According To Culbertson

An expert declarer is one who can stop at a given point, near the end of a hand, and visualize the probable holdings of both defenders. It is neither possible nor important in most deals to know the exact cards; it is usually the distribution that effects the issue.

Note the excellent play that the declarer in today's hand was able to make, simply because he read the situation correctly.

Neither side vulnerable.

The bidding:

| South | West | North | East |
|---|---|---|---|
| 1 club | 1 diam. | 1 spade | Pass |
| 3 clubs | Pass | 3 spades | Pass |
| 4 clubs | Pass | 5 clubs | Pass |
| Pass | Pass | | |

West was up against it for a good opening lead. Naturally, he was loathe to lead away from his tenace in spades or diamonds, and was not particularly fond of a heart lead from the jack. After considerable thought he led a low club, feeling that this would be the least dangerous. Declarer won with the eight spot and promptly returned a trump. West climbed up with the ace, again refusing to break any side suit, and exited with the club nine. East discarded diamonds on the second and third lead of trumps, and now, when declarer continued to run off trumps, West let go the eight and four of diamonds, while East discarded another diamond and one heart. Now, with two trumps left, declared led his singleton spade to the ace and ruffed a spade return, dropping West's king.

At this point all hands were reduced to six cards. Declarer's were the A-6-3 of hearts, the A-2 of diamonds, and the six of clubs. West had held on to his three hearts, nence was now down to the K-J-10 of diamonds. Dummy's holding was one spade and the original three hearts and two diamonds. East had the Q-10 of spades, the Q-8-7 of hearts, and a singleton diamond.

Now declarer played his last trump and watched closely for West's discard. West did his best to confuse the issue by letting go a heart and hanging on to his three diamonds. He realized that if he were to discard the ten of diamonds, and thereby advertise that he now was down to the K-J, declarer would lead the ace and another diamond, throwing him (West) on lead and forcing a heart return. Declarer certainly would play for divided heart honors; that is, if West returned a low heart dummy would play low and East's probable queen would be picked up; then a heart finesse would be taken against West's jack. Conversely, if West, after winning with the diamond king, played the heart jack, declarer would go up with dummy's king and finesse against East's queen.

Hoping to avoid this obvious line of play, West deliberately held on to three diamonds. But declarer read the situation perfectly. He realized that West was now down to two hearts. Instead of attempting to throw West on lead with a diamond, which would leave him with an extra diamond trick, declarer led a low heart to the king and returned the ten spot. At this point the defenders were helpless. East could not put up the queen without dropping his own partner's jack, hence had to play low. Declarer also ducked on the near certainty that West would have to win and return a diamond. Obviously, that was the case. Winning with the heart jack, West had to return a diamond from his tenace. Dummy's queen held and now declarer had two aces for the fulfilling tricks.

Raising A Family

Twice I had seen Betty at the door of the living room waiting politely for a chance to ask her mother something.

Behind Betty stood a taller child with a guitar under her arm and a small book of notes clutched tightly to her chest.

O R Barton

Betty's eyes were shining. She, too, it seemed, was playing host, and I guessed the situation at once. Her friend could play. She wanted her friend to play for mother's company.

Finally determined to see that the entertainment got a hearing, the little girl went to her mother and whispered.

Mother looked out toward the hall, saw the young virtuoso all ready to make a grand entry, and then said, "I'm sorry, dear, but you see we are talking. Some other time I'm sure I'd love to hear Mary play."

Then I said, "Mary, come in. I think we should all be very interested to hear you."

I watched Betty. She could hardly contain herself for pride and joy. It is so wonderful to see a child proud of what another child can do, and take a vicarious joy in the other's victories. So rare, indeed, that it needs encouragement.

In came Mary, sat herself down on a low stool, arranged the guitar on her knees and laid the book of notes on the floor.

She played "The Old Grey Goose" and "Mary's Lamb."

The older people listened and fell into the mood of the children. It did them all good.

But it was Betty I watched. Betty was so excited about her friend playing for real company that she stood off in a corner fairly quivering with delight.

When the performance was over everyone applauded. It took about eight minutes all told and the two children were made happy.

It is a rare quality in any human being to be so unselfishly interested in the achievements of other people.

Spain is giving Hitler oranges. We're waiting, though, for the nation with courage enough to give him a raspberry.

Minute Make-Ups

Maybe you're going to a World's Fair. Or maybe you're just bumbling around having a grand time over week-ends. But anyhow, if you suddenly find yourself traveling where bathing facilities just don't seem to be handy, here's what: Take a sponge bath with unscented eau de cologne!

Give Bathroom Summer Shower Of Accessories

By ALICIA HART

This is the time to lay in a fresh supply of bath accessories—items to encourage every member of the family to enjoy an extra bath or two a day during the summer months ahead.

There are, for example, amusing cakes of soap which might make the small fry in the household hate bathing less. Perfectly round cakes are attached to elastic cords which may be worn on the wrist. Flower-shaped ones come on longer cords to go about the neck—necklace fashion.

Also for children are miniature bath and shower brushes, sweet little nail brushes, bath powder in a container which is a replica of a large, red apple.

The head of the house might enjoy having a huge bottle of unscented cologne and a large box of lightly perfumed bath powder—all his own. Or one of the new bath powder brushes with a hollow handle which holds the powder and perforations at the base of the bristles through which powder sifts easily. In the bath salts category, there are delicately scented, so-called water softeners which men, as well as women, like.

New trays to be placed across the tub hold your soap, manicure gadgets, bath brushes and perhaps a jar of cooling mask come in glass with white wrought-iron frames. Refreshing, pine-scented bath oils are available to those on limited budgets.

Your bathroom, like the rest of the house, should be made as cool looking as possible. Large, snowy white bath towels will be more inviting than the dark blue, royal blue and rich brown ones you liked last winter. Frosty white window and shower curtains are most eye-appealing at this time of year. And it's a good idea to keep a vacuum jug of ice water in the bathroom as well as beside each bed in the house.

Wake up your SLEEPY STOMACH, too!

Broomhall

The United Kingdom was again a good buyer of Canadian and to a lesser extent of Argentine wheat yesterday. Five cargoes No. 1 Manitoba mostly for July shipment sold at 76¾ to 77⅛ c.i.f. in addition to a few small parcel lots for June shipment and in nearby positions. Argentine parcels sold at 57¾ to 58½ c.i.f. The demand for American wheat was reported to be quieter but about 200,000 bushels already in store were taken by the continent. Liverpool, following the moderate recovery of the previous day again displayed a steady undertone yesterday to close ⅜ to 1c higher helped by improved demand, uneasiness over central European and far eastern political situations nd firmer Argentine resellers offers. Indications of large world shipments again this week apparently had little influence, although closing prices particularly for the distant positions were well below the day's highs.

Alberta Government Policy Is To Improve Quality of Livestock

CALGARY, June 16.—Hon. D. B. Mullen, Alberta minister of agriculture, Thursday told members of the Western Stock Growers' Association that the policy of the Alberta government is to "improve quality of livestock rather than to increase production."

Premier William Aberhart expressed appreciation of the manner in which Alberta livestock men dealt and are dealing with their problems.

Through co-operation of the association practically 50 per cent of Alberta's horses have been vaccinated against encephalomyelitis, or sleeping sickness in horses, said Mr. Mullen.

LARGE TB FREE AREA

The largest tuberculosis-free area in Alberta will be established in the southeastern part of the province, he announced.

Too many inferior and unfinished cattle had been shipped out of Alberta, said Mr. Mullen. Good feeder cattle can be produced in the ranching country of the south and ideal finishing could be done in central and northern parts of the province, he declared. The speaker expressed hope that next year there would be 15 feeder associations in Alberta, spending $1,500,000 on feeder cattle and land.

TAKING ADVANTAGE

Ranchers appeared to be taking advantage of the government's bull exchange policy, he said, and within the last year 413 purebred herd sires were distributed in Alberta compared with only 232 in the previous 33 years.

Through the swine exchange policy, Mr. Mullen said the government hopes to place about 1,000 purebred Yorkshire and Tamworth boars on Alberta farms.

Co-operation of fur farmers has been obtained to remove "tail-end" cattle from the fresh meat market and "within the next 10 days," an abbatoir to furnish meat to fox farmers will be opened in Edmonton, said the provincial minister.

Churchwardens were no FAD!

Why did our forefathers smoke long pipes, and why don't we? Old prints show Sir Walter Raleigh smoking a pipe six feet long, and men in "tobagies" (smoking taverns) with pipes like those which later became known as "churchwardens."

Long stems helped to cool and take the "bite" out of tobacco which, in the early days, was unscientifically cultivated and poorly cured. But it would be pretty awkward to smoke a churchwarden while driving a car! And, happily, we don't need to. The tobacco industry has spent millions to develop pedigreed seed and to improve methods of growing and harvesting — all to assist Nature to produce better leaf. And it has spent millions more on warehouses in which to store thousands of tons for three or four years of aging. So our pipe tobaccos are mild, cool and fragrant.

So, too, with cigarettes . . . At first they were made only from expensive Turkish or Egyptian tobacco. Now the industry knows how to grow, cure and blend many varieties so that they are delightfully mild and, when rolled in cigarettes, are priced within everyone's reach . . . More people enjoy smoking today because the tobacco industry has made smoking more enjoyable.

DR. F. FERN PETTY
of Los Angeles, president of Optimist International, who is visiting the city Friday.

40,000 BOYS ASSISTED BY SERVICE CLUB

Optimist International Provides Camps, Clubs, Medical Care

Aid was extended last year by the Optimist International to 40,000 boys, Dr. F. Fern Petty, Los Angeles, president of the association, said Friday.

"Optimist clubs," he said, "aided about 40,000 boys by operating summer camps, forming junior clubs, providing medical and dental care, and co-operating with existing boy organizations such as the Boy Scouts and the Y.M.C.A., and carrying on a wide range of similar activities."

He addresses a dinner meeting of the Edmonton Optimist Club at the Country Club Friday night.

Principal object of Optimist International, he explained, was to live up to its motto "Friend of the Boy."

He spoke warmly of the work of the local club in this regard, saying it won high regard in the association.

"The Edmonton Optimist Club was one of the first Optimist clubs to establish its own summer camp for boys, and was also one of the first to sponsor Junior Optimist Clubs as a means of providing leadership and wholesome recreation to youngsters."

"In assisting these boys," said Dr. Petty, "the club is doing a service that can hardly be stressed too much."

Dr. Petty will attend the annual Optimist International convention at Richmond, Va., June 25-28.

Children Steal Fine Playthings Police Are Told

Envious eyes of neighborhood children on the fine and expensive toys of Mrs. James Brody's little girl, 10150 117 street, resulted in a large number of the playthings being stolen, police were informed Thursday.

A playhouse in the Brody back yard was broken into and toy guns, a scout belt and holster, tables, dishes and doll's clothes, a tennis racket and a large number of other toys were taken. This fine array of playtime things was just too much for the youngsters around.

Warehouse Fire

Damage to the building and to a quantity of stored newsprint resulted when fire started in a warehouse at 102 street and 105 avenue, used by the Western Transfer Co. Police believe incendiarism was the cause, as two children saw a man come from under the building shortly before the fire was noticed.

The Inquiring Reporter

Thursday Their Majesties King George VI and Queen Elizabeth set sail on their return to England after receiving rousing receptions in their own Dominion and in the United States. During their visit in Edmonton, The Bulletin's Inquiring Reporter talked with Chief Constable A. Canning of Scotland Yard, personal guard to Their Majesties for the tour, who remarked that while undoubtedly Americans would give the King and Queen a really enthusiastic welcome, it could not be any more sincere than the welcome from Canadians.

Now that the United States tour is over, the B.I.R. remembered the statement and decided to ask a few about town just what they thought of the American reception to the British sovereigns, and whether Chief Canning was right in his forecast.

ALICE MacDONALD, stenographer: Yes, I think he was correct. They certainly turned out to see the King and Queen and gave them a great reception. I believe it was largely out of curiosity and friendliness, whereas it was loyalty on the part of Canadians.

MURDO CAMPBELL, salesman: Well, I certainly think the leaders in the States were sincere in their reception, and I would say the people were as well. It's wonderful, the reception Their Majesties received in the States. The people were as enthusiastic as if it were their own King and Queen, but, of course, our Canadian feeling was not only friendship but loyalty.

DORIS KNIGHT, housekeeper: It seems to me some of the Americans were disrespectful in some ways. For example, in some yelling "Hi George, Hi Liz". It's characteristic of Americans to make a lot of noise about anything they feel friendly to, and sometimes they may get a bit too enthusiastic and boisterous, but I really think they were friendly with it all. They gave the King and Queen a more noisy and bigger reception because they had the crowds and the troops to draw from. They couldn't have given a more loyal reception than Canada gave, because ours is one of the great self-governing dominions of the British Empire and in Canada Their Majesties were not just visitors, they were our own King and Queen of Canada. They were in their own home among their own loyal, loving people.

LEGION SENDS MESSAGE FOR ROYAL COUPLE

Farewell Is Flashed By Radio To Empress Of Britain At Sea

Goodbye and God Speed message to Their Majesties was sent by radio to the Empress of Britain by members of the Canadian Legion, Edmonton branch, from their regular monthly meeting Thursday night, the enabling resolution being greeted by a salvo of cheering which prevented it from being put to the meeting for several minutes.

Major Walter McLaren, M.M., president of the branch and newly-elected president of the Alberta command, said that following the loyal outburst of the members it was hardly necessary to go through the formalities of submitting the resolution to the meeting.

Major McLaren was the recipient of congratulations on his election by acclamation to the presidency of the Alberta command. Delegates to that convention submitted their reports which were adopted following short discussion.

Twenty-nine new members were admitted to membership in the branch, bringing the paid-up membership to 804. More than 100 new members have been enrolled since January 1, it was disclosed in the membership report.

GAMBLING DENS RAIDED HERE: 33 ARRESTED

There may be luck for some in lotteries but it was bad luck for the lotteries themselves when two alleged Chinese gaming houses were raided Thursday night by Detective Inspector J. J. Shaw and members of the city police morality squad.

Raids were made about 10 p.m. and 33 men arrested on charges of keeping gaming houses, selling lottery tickets and being found in disorderly houses. There were 25 Chinese and eight white men.

Inspector Shaw, accompanied by Det. Vel Taylor and Const. J. Murray, raided a Chinese store at 10126 97 street, arresting Mah Ping, Mah Hung and Mah Gow as keepers, with 12 "found in."

Detective W. Smith, aided by Det. E. Kenny, H. Graham and Const. J. B. Arial, raided premises at 9705 101A avenue where he arrested Mah Kee, Pon Yin, Gee Toy and Mah Yin as keepers and 14 others as frequenters.

The men were all released on bail after being booked in at the city police station.

In police court Friday morning eight of the men pleaded guilty to charges of being found in and were fined $2 and costs. The 24 Chinese pleaded not guilty and received adjournments until June 23.

Two Injured As Car Hits Girder

Tom Wolfinger and Henry Reddick of Doris, Alta., were taken to the General Hospital in an ambulance Thursday night with severe cuts to their faces, sustained when the car Wolfinger was driving crashed into a steel girder in the subway at Jasper and 109 street. Wolfinger said his steering gear went out of order when he was going through the subway, driving east. Reddick was a passenger.

Bicycle Stolen

Bicycle belonging to Charles Mitchell, 9315 107A avenue, was stolen from in front of the Gem theatre Wednesday night. It was found by police a few blocks away with its handlebars and light removed.

WHY PEOPLE WEAR GLASSES
By JACKSON BROS. OPTOMETRIST

How many times have you heard people ask, "Why do so many people wear glasses?" The real source of wonder is not that so many people wear glasses, but rather that so many manage to do without them.

Just think how much the eyes are asked to do today. Close print in newspapers and magazines to read, columns of figures to scan, flashing electric lights to endure, movies to watch. It's really amazing that they continue to function as well as they do. So it's easy to understand that glasses nowadays are not merely worn to see better, but to relieve the eyes from strain that comes from constant use.

Here's another aspect about glasses. They can help to preserve the youthful appearance. Glasses may relieve that characteristic anxious, tired, drawn look which often comes from eyestrain. Is it any wonder, then, that so many young people, especially young women, turn to glasses today. They are appropriate for every place and occasion.

Don't take your eyes for granted. It is better to be safe. Call in and let our Registered Optometrist, who holds his degree by university examination, tell you whether you need glasses or not.

Our eyesight clinic is known far and wide, and is open to you every day except Sundays and Holidays.

If you need glasses you can have the use of them while paying for them by using our well established easy pay plan in weekly or monthly payments.

For your appointment call, write or phone 21747.

MANY STORES TAKE VOUCHERS LOW DECLARES

Provincial Treasurer Surprised Any Difficulty Experienced

Declaring that there are more than 4,200 Alberta merchants freely accepting the provincial government non-negotiable transfer vouchers, Hon. Solon E. Low, provincial treasurer, Friday expressed surprise that any difficulty should be experienced in obtaining goods for them.

His comment was made following a statement by Ald. D. K. Knott at a city council meeting that difficulty had been experienced in obtaining goods for the vouchers.

In his comment on the situation, Mr. Low said that "Relating to recent local press reports with respect to negotiations with the city of Edmonton as to acceptance of transfer vouchers in payment of taxes and utilities, A. K. Olive, superintendent of treasury branches, attended a council meeting on March 9 last, at which the matter was discussed.

MADE SUBMISSIONS

"Mr. Olive made certain submissions at that time which the council requested him to have me place in writing. Shortly after this meeting, however, Mr. Hodgson, city commissioner, called Mr. Olive on the telephone and arranged for him to meet the commissioners.

"At this meeting it was decided to leave the whole matter in abeyance until such time as myself and Mr. Olive could meet the Mayor and City Commissioners for a full discussion. Due to the pressure of office, this meeting has not yet been arranged. Mr. Olive's submission is going forward to the city immediately for their consideration.

"I feel assured that Alderman D. K. Knott is aware of the difference between the non-negotiable voucher and a negotiable instrument and having given thought to the matter, would not have endeavored to pass the voucher to a third party for value, but would have followed the usual procedure and deposited same to his credit in the treasury branch.

FAILS UNDERSTAND

"Moreover, I fail to understand why he, or anyone else, should have experienced any difficulty in obtaining goods through the use of the non-negotiable transfer voucher, as at the present time over 4,200 merchants in the province are freely accepting them."

Here Are Survivors Of Lake Tradegy

ANNUAL TAG DAY SALVATION ARMY FOR SATURDAY

Making a bid for public support for their Fresh Air Camp at Seba Beach for underprivileged children and mothers, and also for the Salvation Army Women's Receiving Home, which has been operated here for the past few years, members of the Salvation Army organization will be on duty on downtown street corners on Saturday, on the occasion of their annual tag day for these two projects.

In 1938 some 260 women and girls received care in the Receiving Home being provided with food, meals and beds, and in some instances clothing, until more permanent arrangements could be made. Since its inception the home has met a very vital need in the community life of Edmonton in its care for stranded, sick and destitute women and girls. Police officials and others who work in close co-operation with the Army officers in charge, speak highly of the work being done in rehabilitation and in making the unfortunate self-supporting and re-establishing them in life.

The Fresh Air camp is also meeting a real need, as it takes children off city streets to the healthful and refreshing air of the countryside, where they are given a supervised vacation on the lake shore, and where at the same time needy mothers are given a vacation which they would otherwise find it impossible to take.

"We know the public knows our work and we are looking for the same generous support we have always had," said an Army officer today.

"Let's see! You were eighteen last birthday, if I remember rightly; you're really growing up, aren't you, Son? Seems just the other day that I was pacing the hospital corridor awaiting your arrival. # BOXLA TEAMS REACH PLAYOFF ROUND

Looking Them Over

By Jack Kelly

Happy Birthday!

The Analysis

Reds Favorites

TODAY the Edmonton Grads are officially 24 years old as a continuous [illegible]. Yesterday, June 15 was their birthday. For a number of years the club has staged its birthday party in the Fall however, since that is [illegible] a more convenient time on account of holidays, games [illegible]. But June 15 is the date on which the club was formed that [illegible] to set the most amazing records ever compiled in sport.

The Grads' record now stands at 482 games won and 22 lost in official contests. These figures speak more impressively than a column of glittering adjectives.

After the [illegible] of those 482 wins against 22 losses, in the very best competition that the entire world of girls' basketball can produce, [illegible] help but wonder what the secret is.

For years I've been trying to work out the answer. Gradually I'm getting closer, but I'm not sure that I have all the factors yet. The girls that wear Grad uniforms are not super-stars individually. They are [illegible] athletes—not born athletes. Referee Bill Douglas once aptly [illegible] players who have been [illegible] together and fired by the magnetism and ability of Coach Percy Page and made into an amazing machine. I don't think anyone can improve much on that definition.

Yet that isn't quite all of mystery of what makes the Grads click. Countless hours of practice have made them the world's most accurate field shots. They haven't a score of pre-arranged plays, but they have a system. They use the five-man fast-breaking offensive with short passes in the forecourt and a minimum of dribbling. They use a man-to-man defensive. They have mastered the fundamentals. What they know, they know better than any other team that has yet come along.

Finally they have had an esprit de corps that enabled them to work together with the smoothest possible co-ordination. Each girl can instinctively "feel" what the other is about to do. Only by being the closest sort of pals on and off the floor can that "feel" be developed and maintained. Absolute confidence in each other and their coach is [illegible] a cog in the machine is equally important.

In addition to these factors there are powerful emotional ones—ones [illegible]. [illegible] the team is almost sacred. The invincibility of the Grads is legendary. The great teams that have gone before have carried a torch that her successors cannot let flicker out. This fiery torch is, I think, the real innermost secret of those 482 wins against 22 losses.

Manager Hands Bouquet To Freddie Hutchinson

KANSAS CITY, June 16.—That dark cloud has a $50,000 silver lining for the manager of the last-place Toledo club in the American Association.

It's Freddie Hutchinson, the young west coast youngster who cost Detroit Tigers that sum to pitch—for their farm team.

Hutchinson, who hopes to garner his 20th victory on his 20th birthday in August, relies primarily upon a fast ball which he hurries over the plate with a combination pitcher's windup and a catcher's snap throw.

"I was a catcher when I started to play ball for my high school out in Washington and I guess I never learned to throw any differently," the youth theorized.

A streak of wildness with the Tigers ticketed the black-haired rookie for a second year of seasoning in the minors, where he has [illegible] and lost five. Last year, his first in organized baseball, he won 25 games and lost seven for the Seattle club in the Pacific Coast League.

"That kid's no thrower, he's a [illegible] pitcher," was Manager Myles Thomas' compliment to his prize [illegible].

SWIMMING GALA BILLED TONIGHT BY WEST ENDERS

First gala of the current season will be held at the West End Swimming Pool tonight starting at 8.30 p.m. Club members will present a program of swimming and diving events that will feature many of the West End Club's leading stars.

The Dutchettes Club, the only squad of girls in the province able to do the intricate "Flying Dutchman," will headline the diving.

A turning board, a sort of partition across the pool, will be installed for [illegible] to shorten the pool down to the same length as those in which standing Canadian records have been set. Swimmers turn in faster times in shorter pools since they get the benefit of more push-aways from the ends, than they do in the longer ponds.

Johnson, O'Dowdy Set For Title Bout Tonight

GUS JOHNSON has met all demands. He has tapered down to 174 pounds, the middle limit, and is well prepped for his silver belt battle against Champion Patrick O'Dowdy at the Memorial Hall tonight. The bouts start at 7:00 p.m.

O'Dowdy's request for a new referee has also been granted. [illegible] official when the main title bout opens up.

Cummings seems just a little on the worried side too as he prepares to meet Soldier Thomas in the semi-windup. The Soldier, as usual, is in the very best of condition, working out with the ball clubs. This bout itself will be the equal to any main [illegible].

[illegible] Cummings he will be off to a fast start, and hard to stop from now [illegible].

The matches get under way at 8.4[illegible] between Graham Nelson and Ray Loeffler. This bout will be one [illegible] or 20 minutes [illegible].

Gordon Grayson will referee all bouts.

College Club Wins Last Juvenile Tilt

JUNIOR and juvenile box lacrosse teams hit the playoff grind early next week. Jesuit College's 5-4 triumph against South Side in a juvenile clash completed the gruelling league schedules and Monday evening the juniors will open semi-final action. The juveniles will start their final series sometime before Wednesday.

League officials decided playoff plans last night. West End Reds will open up against the Jesuit College team on Monday at the College grounds and the winner of that game will play the top flight Maple Leafs for the city junior championship. If Jesuits should win against the Reds then the final against the Leafs will be a sudden death affair but should Reds come through they will play a home-and-home series against Leafs. A third game would be played on neutral grounds.

Last night's juvenile game, apparently, has little bearing on the juvenile playoffs. Reds, winners in eight straight games, will meet Maple Leafs for the final while the South Siders are completely routed from the playoffs.

WAS THIRD STRAIGHT

Jesuits took their third straight triumph as they edged out a margin against South Side. Jesuits staged a winning rally in the third period as they shot four goals past Kilburn in this session. The College lads got their other goal early in the second frame.

South Siders staged a determined rally in the fourth period, getting two goals, but their bitter efforts fell short of upsetting the Collegiates.

SPLIT UP SCORING

Scoring honors were fairly evenly divided among the Jesuits. After Smitten sent South Side into a 1-0 lead in the first period, Morin blistered home Trembley's pass to tie the score for the College. B. Lygo, however, rifled the South Siders back into the lead before the second closed.

Jutras, Mercier, Ross and Vallee each sniped a goal in the third period for Jesuit's winning rally. Vallee, besides scoring, picked up an assist in this frame.

Goals by Forbes and Smitten placed the South Siders back in the running in the fourth frame but try as they might, they could not equalize or cop a winning point.

LINEUPS

BOLO PUNCH WINS AGAIN FOR GARCIA

Filipino Flattens Popeye Woods With Clout In Fourth Round

NEW YORK, June 16.—Ceferino Garcia, Filipino from Los Angeles, belted his way into the forefront of the middleweight ranks last night by flattening Walter (Popeye) Woods, New York, in four rounds in Madison Square Garden.

The 15[illegible]-pounder, who only recently graduated from welterweight ranks and went into last night's tilt a 2-1 underdog, dropped the 160¼-pound Woods five times before putting him down for keeps at 17 seconds of the fourth heat.

A crowd of 6,[illegible], who contributed to a gross gate of $[illegible], saw the Filipino's famed "bolo" clout (the blow he developed chopping sugar cane in his native islands) put Woods on the floor each time. The "loser" had former heavyweight champion Jim Braddock in his corner as a second in the scheduled 10-rounder.

Silver Insignia of Sky Line Hikers Goes To Monarchs

MONTREAL, June 16.—As souvenirs of their hike to the summit of Tunnel Mountain during their visit to Banff, Their Majesties, King George and Queen Elizabeth have both graciously accepted the silver insignia of the Sky Line Trail Hikers of the Canadian Rockies.

King George borrowed a Alpenstock from the Sky Line Trail Hikers which he used for his mountaineering adventure, and at the suggestion of Dan McCowan, president of this organization, the parks branch of the Canadian government has been asked to erect a cairn on the top of Tunnel mountain to be named after King George, and also to erect an lookout at a point known as the Green Spot on Stoney Squaw mountain to be called Queen Elizabeth's view, as Her Majesty was particularly delighted with the panorama of the Canadian Rockies at Banff from that point.

The Sky Line Trail Hikers is active in promoting hiking expeditions through the trails of the National Parks in the Canadian Rockies, and hold an annual four-day camp which will be located next August in Ptarmigan Valley, north of Lake Louise. Sir Edward Beatty is the Hon. President and secretary and founder is J. Murray Gibbon of Montreal.

RUN OVER BY 52 FREIGHT CARS AND LOCOMOTIVE—ESCAPES UNHURT: Charles Harvey, now of Council Bluffs, Ia., was employed as a night car checker in the railroad yards at Omaha, Nebr., when he stumbled in front of a freight train and was run over by 52 freight cars and a locomotive. Realizing he couldn't get out, he flattened out under the moving cars. His clothes were virtually in shreds after the experience, but Harvey was so nearly unscathed that he walked more than a block to his office to report the accident and get a flashlight. He then returned to the scene of the accident to recover the articles lost from his pockets.

JEAN BURRITT ENTERS FINAL NET TOURNEY

TORONTO, June 16.—Stocky Jean Adele Burritt, back to the Canadian tennis circuit after a two-year absence, ran between the raindrops Thursday to a smashing victory over the defending champion, Mrs. Ralph Tees of Montreal, and landed squarely in the women's singles finals at the Ontario championship.

Breaking through Mrs. Tees' steady, forceful game with a smashing forehand, the Toronto blonde rallied after dropping the second set to win 6-3, 2-6, 6-1

In the final Saturday Miss Burritt will meet Mrs. Frank Fisher of Montreal, formerly of Calgary and Toronto. Mrs. Fisher set down Mrs. W. R. Walton, Jr., of Toronto, the all-England badminton champion, 3-6, 6-3, 6-1 in the other semi-final.

The women's matches were the only ones completed.

Softball

Imperial Bankers broke into the win column last night in a Pastime League game at the Golf Links where they pounded out a 16-11 win over the "Y" Triangles.

At the Stadium the Hudson's Bay were impressive with 13 runs to the Railroaders 3. This keeps an unbroken record of wins posted for the Bay. No small factor in their success has been the consistently good pitching of Ed Donald who teams up with P. Crowley for an effective battery.

These Railroaders are a new team with plenty of power usually but they failed to connect with Donald's slants on this occasion. McIntyre and Kreswell were the battery for the Railroaders.

Only one Pastime League game is slated for tonight. Massey Harris and Ashdowns tangle at the Stadium.

Calder defeated Alberta Avenue 23-13 in a Community League girls' game played at the Calder diamond Thursday.

Francisco Club blasted out another 17-7 win on Wednesday night in a senior softball game played at North Edmonton. Fleming and Lowden, the losers, had a bad first inning, allowing eight runs to come in; but held their own after that

J. Clelland was high scorer for the winners with four runs, while Dalmar and Brault tallied three each.

Longacres Track Expects Best Season to Date

By ROBERT FAHS

Exclusive to The Edmonton Bulletin

SEATTLE, June 16.—The "gee-gees" will leave the barrier at Longacres track June 24 in what promises today to be the best horse-racing season yet for the Pacific northwest's most pretentious centre of the "sport of kings."

New shipments of horses were arriving daily and workouts are well underway in preparation for 50 days of racing.

Longacres, situated 10 miles south of Seattle, is one of the seven major tracks on the Pacific coast and has barns with a capacity of 700 horses. Already more than 500 thoroughbreds have arrived from Bay Meadows, Caliente and the other coast tracks.

BETTER STAKE HORSES

With daily arrivals from all over the country it is virtually a certainty the track stables will all be taken several days before the $1,500 inaugural handicap.

Officials of the track were particularly pleased with the class of horses being shipped here for the season. Better stake horses were assured for the feature handicaps, including the $10,000 Longacres Mile, August 27, and the grade of platers to fill the daily programs appeared to be better than at previous meetings.

Numerous "favorite" horses with Longacres fans have returned, including Campillo, the big bay gelding who holds the Longacres record for a mile and one-eighth, established in the Labor Day handicap in 1934. Campillo arrived with one of the best records of the Pacific coast this year and apparently is ready to make a comeback. He has already won more than his 1938 grand total

FIVE DAYS PER WEEK

The 1939 racing schedule provides for five days of racing each week, with the plant closed Mondays and Tuesdays. Twilight racing will prevail on Wednesdays and Thursdays, with the first post at 4:30 p.m., so every one will be able to enjoy the "sport of kings." First post Friday, Saturday and Sunday will be the customary 2:15 p.m.

During the season the National Association of State Racing Commissioners will meet in Seattle and will attend Longacres during their conclave, July 27-29.

Longacres has the same advanced type mutuel totalizer used at Santa Anita and Hollywood Park. Any "photo-finishes" will be projected on screens for the public to study and verify the official results

LIST OF FEATURES

The big race of the season will be the Longacres $10,000 added purse once around the mile track on Aug. 27. Other featured events will be: (date, event, purse):

June 24, Inaugural Handicap, $1,500; June 25, Tacoma Handicap, $1,200; July 2, Evergreen State Handicap, $1,200; July 4, Independence Day Handicap, $1,500; July 9, Puget Sound Handicap, $1,200; July 16, Northwest Championship, $1,200; July 23, Spokane Handicap, $1,200; July 20, Washington Derby, $2,000; August 6, Mt. Rainier Handicap, $1,500; August 13, Speed Handicap, $2,000; August 20, British Columbia Handicap, $1,500; September 3, Olympic Cup, $1,500 and September 4, Seattle Handicap, $2,000.

PATS TO OPPOSE ROYALS TONIGHT

South Side Royals entertain the league-leading Army and Navy Pats in the Edmonton Girls' Softball League at Boyle street diamond tonight at seven o'clock.

Royals will be out to stop the winning ways of the Pats, and a three-way tie for first place will result if they happen to do that little thing.

ASCOT BOOKS BALANCE AS FAVORED FAIL

ASCOT, Eng., June 16.—The majority of bookmakers were well satisfied last night at the end of the third day of racing at the Ascot track

Hon. Peter Beatty's two-year-old Tant Mieux, ridden by Gordon Richards and starting at 13 to 8 in the New Stakes, was the only favorite to finish first throughout the day.

SURPRISE UPSETS

The biggest surprises were the defeats of James Rank's four-yearold, Scottish Union, in the famous Gold Cup event, and P. R. R. Dunne's Portobello, in the Granville Stakes.

Flyon, Lord Milford's four-year-old son of Flamingo-Acquit, won the Gold Cup, 2½-mile endurance test, five lengths ahead of Sir Abe Bailey's Maranta with Scottish Union third. Flyon started at odds of 100 to 6; Maranta at 10 to 1 and the favorite at 13 to 8

In the five furlongs Granville Stakes the winner was Mrs. F. J. Barlow's Cosmohone at 5 to 2. Portobello, odds-on favorite at 4 to 7 was badly left at the post and finished last.

Lord Portal's Ombro, starting at 5 to 1, was a comfortable winner of the Ribblesdale Stakes, over one mile. His [illegible] had a further success when Mrs. W Murray's Glen Loan, 3 to 1, took the Rous Memorial Stakes, seven furlongs, 155 yards.

FULHAM UPSETS

Lord Astor's Fulham, an outsider at 100 to 9, beat M[illegible]gan's odds-on favorite [illegible], 8 to 11, by a length in the Waterford Stakes, seven furlongs, 155 yards. The victory gave Jockey Richards a double triumph for the day.

The racing was held in cool, sunless weather. The majority of women favored thick overcoats and mackintoshes in preference to the usual Ascot creations

Eph Smith who rode Flyon to victory in the Gold Cup completed a unique triple as he previously had ridden the winners in the Derby and Ascot Stakes. He rounded out the day with a further [illegible] Cork and Orrery Stakes [illegible] which beat the three-year-old [illegible] from His Majesty's stable by three lengths.

Sir Abe Bailey's [illegible] made a great effort to complete a notable double of winning the Hunt Cup and the Gold Cup, two Ascot features. His [illegible] won the Hunt Cup Wednesday [illegible] third place.

Flyon won the race in easy four minutes 28 1-5 seconds for the 2½ miles that he gave the appearance of being able to go around again.

STARTER ROWE IS EXONERATED

TORONTO, June 16—The Incorporated Racing Associations issued a statement last night exonerating Starter Nipper Rowe and his staff of assistants for the poor start of the Orpen Memorial Handicap at Long Branch track last Saturday, when Archworth was left wheeling in the hands of an assistant as the field started away.

Archworth, the favorite, merely galloped out the distance as Mona Bell won the race. The I.C.R.A. said a "thorough inquiry" had been made.

"Made from a SECRET FORMULA 200 years old!"
THIS sounds like an exaggeration—but it's not! The document containing this formula for London Dry Gin is locked away in our vault and only one man in the organization (William Strange, famous gin distiller from London, England) knows what's in it. This generations-old formula has made world-famous the "London Dry" type of gin—and now it is used to make the UDL brand of London Dry Gin, "SILVER FIZZ."
BUT THAT'S NOT ALL! To get the best out of this famous formula, crystal-clear, non-alkaline water is essential. Fortunately, Vancouver is abundantly supplied in this respect.
These are the reasons why UDL London Dry Gins are "Famed Around the World."

BRITISH ASK U.S. RUNNERS TO PLAY FAIR

Writers Give Suggestions For Wooderson and Cunningham Race

LONDON, June 16.—Br[illegible] sport writers have a couple of suggest[illegible] about how Amer[illegible] [illegible] Saturday [illegible] Sydney Wooderson [illegible] Glenn Cunningham [illegible] Princeton.

GANG ACT OUT

F[illegible] wouldn't be quite sporting for other Americans running with Wooderson and Cunningham [illegible] up on Sydney and sec[illegible] [illegible] polite to alibi for Glenn Cunningham before Wooderson beats him.

As to the first the London Times remarks:

"[illegible] the Americans will resist any temptation to run as a team. If [illegible] is to be accomplished there will be little room for mere victory tactics."

As to Cunningham's alibi, British writers [illegible] announcement Glenn hasn't been able to get in much training for the "mile of the century."

"Far be it from this department," says John MacAdem of the Daily Express, "to do other than pour pailfuls of cement into every nook and cranny in the fabric of international amity but somebody must up and say something about the alibi barrage being put up by the Americans.

"Glenn is as fit as ever he will be and the report that he would not take part in the race because of suspicions about his condition was merely the gentle squeak from outside in case Sydney gives them all a dusting round the bowl."

Most Britons believe Wooderson not only is sure to win if he is fairly treated but that he is likely to break his world mark of 4:06.4.

Central Figures As U.S. Open Title Decided

Seen at Philadelphia, where the U.S. Open golf tournament was played, are these five principals in the big event, each of whom played an important part in deciding ownership of the title for 1939. LEFT shows what was probably the most vital single shot in the tournament, Sam Snead's attempt to get out of a bunker on the 18th hole of the final round. All Sam needed when he reached this hole was a five, the fairly easy par, or even a bogey six, only to go completely to pieces and shoot an eight, missing his first attempt to get out, hitting the next one into the crowd, and then three-putting on the green. RIGHT shows Ralph Guldahl, champion for the last two years, handing over the trophy to Craig Wood. Denny Shute and Byron Nelson, all tied for first place at the end of the regular 72 holes, with scores of 284. Shute was eliminated and Wood and Nelson were still tied at the end of the first 18-hole playoff, with Nelson coming through to take the prize for the first time by defeating Wood in the second playoff round, 70 to 73.

Mrs. E. M. Mapson Of Calgary Dies

CALGARY, June 16.—Mrs. Elizabeth Mary Mapson, 64, wife of F. W. Mapson, well-known real estate man here, died Thursday. Born in England, Mrs. Mapson came to Calgary 36 years ago. Survivors include Mrs. Bernard Monk, Winnipeg, and Mrs. Lionel Rooper, Vic[illegible] [illegible] and Edward C. [illegible] Vancouver, a son.

V.C. WILL NOT BE AWARDED IN PEACETIME

LONDON, June 16.—Prime Minister Chamberlain Wednesday turned down a suggestion by Sir A. Wilson, Labor, that the Victoria Cross be awarded in peacetime as well as in time of war. The suggestion was made in the House of Commons.

Jewish Officer, 18 Arabs Die In Jerusalem Clash

JERUSALEM, June 16.—A Jewish constable and 18 Arab rebels were killed in clashes Thursday. The constable was shot while escorting a Jewish truck which was waylaid by four Arabs on the Nazareth road near Tiberias. Eighteen Arabs were killed in a clash with British troops near Jerusalem. Among the bodies was found that of their chief, Abdul Walid.

Spotlighting the Sport Girl

A list of Alberta girls track and field records from the Women's Amateur Federation, shows five new claimants had appeared in the last two years, and that two provincial records were equalled at the May 24th meet at Clarke stadium. It is also stated that a high jump on that date only lacked three-quarters of an inch to make the number six.

And with the South Side meet of July 1st being an official one, the writer intends to attend and watch the girls who we understand will try again to get their names on the provincial list. It is from these provincial trials that Dominion honors are sought. Then the Olympics.

Montreal sends out a report that they have 800 workmen busy on the 125-acre stretch which is planned to be the site of the British Empire Games of 1942. The huge stadium will seat 100,000; the baseball stadium to handle 45,000; swimming pool, and a building program which calls for accommodation for virtually every kind of sport.

The Canadian Amateur Ski Association has decided to send a team to the world's championships at Oslo next year. The question is now asked as to whether the young adies now resident in Canada will get an opportunity to compete or will Canadian women skiers now residing in Europe get the call as happened in the 1936 Olympic skiing?

The usual annual circular an[illegible] the new rules for girls basketball comes to hand and w[illegible] [illegible] in effect this coming winter. It is presumed some members of the rules committee must have hockey in mind with the possibility of plays back of the backboard. Then there is the optional penalty shot. Here they are.

Any player of a team may ask for time out, that is, this privilege is no longer limited to the captain.

After a free throw from a [illegible] foul [illegible] the team [illegible] the free throw [illegible] be awarded the ball out of bounds at [illegible]. When a per[illegible] foul [illegible] is called, the captain of the offended team may waive the free throw and elect to have the ball put in play from out of bounds at mid-court by any player of his team. In case of a [illegible] [illegible] [illegible] throw [illegible]. It does not apply to a double foul.

In games which go into overtime periods, each team is entitled to an additional time-out for each overtime period.

The distance from face of backboard to end line has been made four feet, with proper allowance on courts where this distance is impossible. The maximum and ideal court length for college teams is 94 feet, with distance between faces of backboards 86 feet.

If a player in the act of shooting is fouled from behind, or roughly handled from any position, two free throws are to be awarded whether the field goal is made or missed.

Inasmuch as most of the basketball games we have, or are likely to witness around this city, are played under boys rules, some curiosity exists as to how these changes will appear from a spectator's point of view.

Recall Eleanor Holm, she of the alleged champagne party on the Olympic trip, and suspended from simon pure amateur ranks? Then Gertrude Ederle, the English channel champion? Both of whom are appearing in Billy Rose's Aquacade at the New York Fair along with other qualified mermaids.

The other day, the United States Amateur Athletic Union applied to Mr. Rose to hold the national outdoors swimming championships in his tank and place his swimming staff on the shelf for the time being they, of course, being guilty of professionalism. And you can imagine the response the simon pures got. Yes, it was a very loud and emphatic no.

A report comes from the east, that the manager of the Rochester Fileret girls basketball team, which team is scheduled to appear in Edmonton this fall, was passing out small packets of matches, on the cover of which was imprinted "world's champions" as applied to his team.

[illegible] Thursday [illegible] payday and with apologies to Charlie MacC[illegible] [illegible] appear on the uniforms of the F[illegible] [illegible] Arena [illegible] Of course [illegible] [illegible] and [illegible] [illegible] MIGHT be appropriate AFTER the series.

INVENTOR OF BULLDOGGING TRICK DIES

YAKIMA, Wash., June 16.—Alex (Owl Child) McCoy, Yakima Indian credited with inventing the rodeo trick of bulldogging, died Wednesday, a victim of gangrene which developed after a knee injury. M. L. Johnson, Indian agent, said McCoy, who claimed to be more than 100 years old, invented the trick while working as a cowboy for Oen Snipes, early day Yakima valley cattleman.

Campaign Planned Against Accidents, Maternity Deaths

OTTAWA, June 16.—A double-barrelled campaign by provincial health departments across the country to cut down highway accidents and the maternity death rate was planned Thursday in the first session of a three-day meeting of the Dominion Council of Health.

Each provincial deputy minister of health attending the meeting agreed to confer with various groups now responsible for highway traffic in control in each province so that a plan of concerted action might be drafted.

Provincial conferences on maternal mortality were also proposed to study that problem as it existed in each area. Immediate Dominion-wide action was held necessary to reduce the maternal mortality rate which has not varied greatly over a period of years despite all efforts to reduce it.

Mine Aide Killed

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa, June 16—Charles Harris, general secretary of the South African Mine Workers' union, was shot to death here today. He was regarded as among the most prominent trade unionists in South Africa. Internal dissension in the union was blamed for the killing.

Provincial Net Meet Starts July 17

AS THE time for the annual provincial tennis tournament rapidly approaches interest becomes increasingly manifest, and when play begins in Lethbridge on Monday, July 17, a large and representative group of racquet wielders will be in attendance.

Many towns in the southern part of the province are reported to be sending players, and entrants are also expected from points in Montana and British Columbia. Indications are that Edmonton will be sending most of their leading players, and Carbon will also be well represented. Calgary, as usual, will have a strong contingent.

GREAT PREPARATIONS

The Lethbridge club is making extensive preparations for the occasion. As this is the first time the tournament is being held there the members intend to make the most of it. The courts have been resurfaced and improvement made on the grounds. Arrangements are also being made for the accommodation of visitors, and those interested should write A. C. Donaldson, 924 7th avenue S., Lethbridge.

A new event has been added to the program this year. It is called the "Father and Son Competition." Fathers who still play the game along with their sons will thus have an opportunity to form a team and compete for a trophy donated by N. S. St[illegible]lize, Lethbridge.

ADOPT OFFICIAL BALL

The Slazenger ball will be used throughout the tournament. Entry forms and other information will be available shortly, and all inquiries should be addressed to M. A. G[illegible]deve, secretary-treasurer of the Alberta Lawn Tennis Association, 2110 4th street west, Calgary, or to A. C. Donaldson, 924 7th avenue south, Lethbridge.

It was decided to add a [illegible] event to the bonspiel program, but the exact nature and d[illegible] of it have not yet been fully decided on.

Government officials did not say from what parts of Canada the furs came.

One Killed In Halifax

Irish Republican Leader Seeks American Support For Terrorist Campaign

NEW YORK, June 16. — Sean Russell, self-styled chief of the outlawed Irish Republican army, called upon Americans of Irish descent last night to lend their moral and financial support to the army's "organized will-o-the-wisp bombings" of English cities.

Addressing an estimated 3,000 members of the Clan Na Gael and I.R.A. clubs, Russell declared the bombings would continue until Great Britain withdrew all her troops from Eire and released every Irish prisoner now in English prisons.

Eoin McKiernan, public relations officer of Clan Na Gael, said the army had perpetrated 150 bombings in London, Liverpool, Birmingham and Manchester in the past five months.

James Brisbane, Clan No Gael member, terming the bombers "our expeditionary force in England," predicted the English would be so terrified within the next 10 months the kingdom would grant all I.R.A. demands.

Russell was arrested in Detroit June 5, the day before King George and Queen Elizabeth arrived at Windsor, Ont., across the border. He was released June 8 after a $5,000 bond was approved by the U.S. labor department.

ONCE THRIVING MINING CENTRE IS GHOST TOWN

ANYOX, B.C., June 16. — This northern British Columbia settlement, once a thriving mining and industrial centre, soon will be a ghost town with only hollow memories of bygone prosperous days.

The last 30-odd families are now being moved away following a decision by Consolidated Mining and Smelting Company, who purchased the smelter and machinery from Granby Consolidated Mining and Smelting Company, to shut down operations completely.

Large scale mining and smelting was stopped here about two years ago when the Granby company found copper production no longer profitable at prevailing world prices.

All but about 100 people, a mere handful of the former population of the town, moved to other parts of the province while those remaining carried on diamond drilling for the new owners.

Freighter Docks With Crew Of 23 Battling Blaze

CHICAGO, June 16—The freighter Delwarnic slipped into port today with most of its crew of 23 battling a fire in two sections aft.

The vessel, owned by the Canadian Atlantic Transit Company, was commanded by Capt. D. F. Cornett, who telephoned the city fire department for aid.

The blaze was reported to be under control within an hour after the fire boat Fred A. Busse arrived at the dock.

The 3,300-ton all-steel steamship carried a cargo of paper, matches, rubber and linoleum from depot harbor, Georgian Bay, Ont. The fire was discovered about 4 a.m. E.D.T., two hours after the vessel cleared from Milwaukee.

Farewell Message Sent To King, Queen Aboard Royal Liner

By R. K. CARNEGIE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

ABOARD R.M.S. EMPRESS OF BRITAIN, June 16—Farewell wishes coupled with an expression of the "extreme pleasure" with which the Royal visit was received in the United States were sent to King George and Queen Elizabeth by President and Mrs. Roosevelt. The contents of the message were disclosed today by the King's attendants.

The message, sent to The King and Queen on their departure from Halifax last evening, said:

"I cannot allow you and The Queen to sail for home without expressing once more the extreme pleasure which your all too brief visit to the United States gave us. The warmth of the welcome accorded you everywhere you visited in this country was the spontaneous outpouring of Americans who were deeply touched by the tact and graciousness and understanding hearts of our guests.

"I shall always like to think that you felt the sincerity of the friendship of the American people.

"Mrs. Roosevelt joins me in parting felicitations to Your Majesties and best wishes for a safe and pleasant voyage."

The Royal yacht was plowing along at 24 knots after being held up slightly by misty patches earlier in the morning. The big liner and her destroyer escorts slowed down a few knots on short stretches of fog for fear of encountering small fishing vessels, many of which travel along the route to and from the fishing banks.

At her present speed it was estimated the Britain with her Royal passengers would reach Conception Bay at 8 p.m. E.D.T.

Survey Planned To Locate, Handle Typhoid Carriers

OTTAWA, June 16—A survey to locate and handle typhoid fever "carriers" was discussed by delegates to the annual meeting of the Dominion Council of Health here Thursday. It was reported a survey in one Quebec county had disclosed no fewer than 15 carriers and it was believed other danger spots would be uncovered as the survey continued.

Dr. F. W. Jackson, deputy minister of health and public welfare for Manitoba, gave council a report on a typhoid outbreak in a Manitoba town where 42 cases with seven deaths were traced to contamination of a factory's water supply. Source of the outbreak was a man who had recovered from typhoid months before the outbreak, but who was a "carrier" of its germs.

A Polish economic mission headed by Col. Adam Koc opened discussions at the treasury Thursday with representatives of the treasury, the foreign office and the export credits guarantee department.

High River Man Shoots Himself In Calgary Gallery

CALGARY, June 16.—A man, police said they believed was Pat Dougherty of High River, died in General hospital here last night from injuries received in a Calgary gunsmith's shop following discharge of a rifle Thursday. Police said a liquor permit found in the man's pocket bore the name Dougherty.

Police said the gun was discharged while the gunsmith, Jacob Woolfe, lone person in the store, was in the back part of the building setting a target in the "shooting" gallery. The store proprietor told police the man had asked to try the gun out.

West Canada Crop Outlook Continues On Extremely High Level

WINNIPEG, June 16—Western Canada's crop outlook continues on an extremely high level, says the crop report of the Canadian Pacific railway, issued today from the company's agricultural department. In many localities it is considered the best for many years for the mid-June estimate.

Maximum absorption has followed the generous rains that have fallen in all three of the prairie provinces, cool temperatures assisting to promote this condition. Southern Saskatchewan, with the single exception of the extreme southwest corner, received heavy rains. Alberta's heaviest precipitation came in the west-central and north-western districts, and the whole of Manitoba received light to heavy showers.

On the boundary line between Saskatchewan and Manitoba in the central districts precipitation was on the light side and more is still desirable. The three provinces, says the report, now have a substantial moisture reserve.

Coarse grains are all seeded and work on land intended for summer-fallow is under way.

Peace River district, which has had weather varying from cool to warm, with fair moisture reports, finds need of rain at most points, although light to heavy showers are reported this week.

Charge Dismissed

ROYAL COUPLE SAY FAREWELL TO REPORTERS

Their Majesties Shake Hands With Each Aboard Empress Liner

By THOMAS WAYLING

Edmonton Bulletin Staff Correspondent

HALIFAX, June 16.—"Aren't you very tired," said The Queen, "you have had a very hard time of it haven't you." No, it wasn't a dream. The Queen was speaking to me. She had given me her hand to shake and her famous smile for inspiration.

Their Majesties had expressed the desire to tender their thanks to the press, camera and radio men who had accompanied them on their trans-continental tour.

We all assembled in a lounge on the Empress of Britain and suddenly found Their Majesties among us. They first spoke to the three postal officials who have operated the royal train post office, then to the correspondents, the camera men and radio men in turn. It had been a strenuous few days for me and The Queen noticed it. "Aren't you very tired," said The Queen, "you have had a very hard time of it haven't you."

"It must have been a tiring job," said The King and The Queen added, "I am sure it must."

FOLLOWED LEAD

"Well, Your Majesty," I replied, "we only followed where you led and that wasn't and will never be very difficult."

"How nice," she said, "but you didn't get very much rest, did you."

"We had a good rest at Banff and Jasper."

"Yes, we did too, didn't we," said Her Majesty turning to the King. He agreed and shook my hand too.

"I am sure you must be glad it is all over," said The King. Secretly I was, but who would say that to The King. "We'll be glad to follow you when you come back again," I said.

WANT TO COME BACK

"We want to come back again," said Her Majesty smiling.

I suggested they must be tired after the long tour.

"It has been wonderful," said Her Majesty simply, "and we've enjoyed every minute of it."

There were other things said but I wouldn't know. I'm not nervous usually, but speaking to the King and Queen does things to you. They are so utterly charming and unassuming, seem so interested, that somehow you are aware your heart's going patter-pitter.

FELT SAME WAY

Other reporters, some very hard-boiled, felt the same way. An American woman reporter stood next to me in the line. She is very famous in her New York paper; whose copy is syndicated, and she'll be the kind of a girl who would casually pat Hitler on the moustache and ask him for an interview on Democracy.

"It makes me very sad to leave," the Queen said to her.

"But you will come back again, Your Majesty," said the reporter, who later said she was so addled she didn't know what to say.

"Yes, I do hope so," said the King. "We really are sad to leave, and we do hope we shall be able to return soon."

Then the King held out his hand to her and said: "You've been awfully kind to us, you know."

LADY CURTSIED

As she shook his hand the lady forgot her staunch Americanism and the Washington garden party—and she curtsied.

The remark that Their Majesties have heard most in their Canadian and American tour has been just that: "Do come back again."

I heard old soldiers and nursing sisters in Ottawa say it to them, almost tearfully. I heard an Indian in the west say: "You come back soon." In Ontario I heard children calling it out and on the prairies and in the mountains.

In Washington the theme was the same. Everybody fell in love with the Queen and took the King as a dear friend and said "Do come back again soon."

I saw an old lady rush out of the crowd at Mount Vernon, Washington, old home and, putting her head into the car window, say to the Queen:

"Please come back and see us again, won't you?" and the Queen said she would.

In the Maritimes Their Majesties heard the same fervent plea and probably the last articulate sound they heard as the great liner slipped down the river were thousands of voices ashore singing "Will Ye No Come Back Again, Will Ye No Come Back again."

"Better loved ye canna be. Will ye no come back again."

The Royal couple had thankful and encouraging words for all the reporters. Both looked fit and the King seemed very much at ease. He chatted with everyone, seemed in no hurry to get along and was more free with the newspapermen than he was when he met them in Ottawa, May 19.

SORRY TO LEAVE

"We're sorry to leave you," he told a Canadian Press reporter. "But I imagine you're glad to see the last of us. You've all done a tremendous job splendidly and I can't quite understand how you got about the country so quickly. You've been almost everywhere we've been and still have had to write your articles. I really think you've had a harder job than we have."

Then turning to look over the group, he said: "Thank you so much, we'll remember you all with gratitude."

MONARCH TELLS HUNGERFORD HIS SERVICE PLEASED

HALIFAX, N.S., June 16—His Majesty the King received Mr. S. J. Hungerford, chairman and president of the Canadian National Railways, immediately previous to the departure of Their Majesties from Halifax. Afterwards Mr. Hungerford issued the following message to all officers and employees of the Canadian National system:

"Before departing from Halifax this evening at the close of his visit to Canada and the United States, His Majesty the King expressed to me his appreciation of the uniform excellence of the railway service on his long journey over the lines of the Canadian National, and, accordingly, I have pleasure in congratulating the officers and employees in the various departments of the system all of whom have contributed in some measure to this highly satisfactory result.

"Their Majesties travelled, in all, 4,251 miles over the Canadian National Railways and some 80 miles on the Canadian National steamship Prince Robert from Victoria to Vancouver. I have expressed to His Majesty the deep pleasure which we have all had in serving him."

Rancher Jailed

6 WITNESSES ARE HEARD AT E.I.D. INQUIRY

Request Made For Production Of Certain Documents

By SAM G. ROSS

Canadian Press Staff Correspondent

BROOKS, Alta., June 16.—Hearing six witnesses, the Jackson royal commission into affairs of the Eastern Irrigation District Thursday probed circumstances surrounding Bassano Creamery and Produce Company and heard a request for production of documents.

Judge J. A. Jackson, royal commissioner, resumed the sessions after adjournment since May 31. Evidence covered brief operation of the creamery under a separate company and negotiations surrounding formation of the company.

William McLaws, Bassano, counsel for trustees of the E.I.D., proposed a petition signed by 15 water users and a letter from W. E. Cain, M.L.A. for Bow Valley, to Hon. D. B. Mullen, minister of agriculture, be produced. W. H. McLaws, K.C., Calgary, counsel for E. L. Gray, Alberta Liberal leader and former manager of the E.I.D., thought they should be before the commission.

SHOULD SEE LETTER

G. M. Blackstock, K.C., Medicine Hat, commission counsel, said the petition might be produced but that he thought he should first see the letter before committing himself, subject to Judge Jackson's ruling.

Six witnesses heard during the day were H. J. Hamilton and C. T. Schon, on the E.I.D. staff, George Robertson, official trustee of the E.I.D., Rupert Huistel, president of National Food Products Ltd., D. J. Mackenzie, K.C., Calgary, and Phil Duby, farmer of Rainier.

ADVANCE OF $350

Evidence was given regarding an advance of $350 for the E.I.D., to the Bassano Creamery, owned by National Food Products Ltd., when for a while the creamery was operated in the fall of 1938 by the E.I.D., with Mr. Hamilton as manager.

Mr. Huistel, examined by Mr. Blackstock, gave evidence on negotiations with Mr. Gray regarding the creamery.

Mr. Huistel said he had given Mr. Gray a proxy on the 22,000 shares of National Food which he owned but that the proxy and the agreement establishing the new company under which the Bassano Creamery was operated independently was cancelled in December, 1938.

URGED REORGANIZATION

Mr. Gray had been obtained to make a study of National Food, said Mr. Huistel, and had recommended its reorganization by divisions, starting with the Bassano Creamery. Mr. Gray's letter said he could give no assurance of successful reorganization of all divisions of the company.

Examined by Mr. McLaws, counsel for Mr. Gray, Mr. Huistel said he owned 22,000 shares of National Food Products, Ltd., and had paid $1 a share for them. In addition he had advanced about $3,000 more and had guaranteed a $10,000 loan to the company from the Alberta government and given securities worth $38,000 to $40,000 to guarantee the loan.

PUT MONEY INTO FIRM

Others had put money into the company, including about 200 or more farmers resident in the Eastern Irrigation district, said Mr. Huistel. He identified the company's financial statement that Mr. McLaws read, showing liabilities of about $24,000 and liquid assets of $6,352.21 in September, 1938. Assets in addition were the Bassano Creamery and a building in Brooks.

Mr. Huistel said directors discussed going into liquidation and reorganizing. Mr. McLaws pointed out the company records showed 48,110 shares issued and with Mr. Huistel having 22,000 the control did not rest with Mr. Huistel. Mr. Huistel said some shares held by others were not paid up shares.

Mr. McLaws asked if Mr. Huistel realized the proxy held by Mr. Gray was useless if Mr. Huistel himself were at the meeting. This might be so, said Mr. Huistel but he was not sure if he knew it.

BETTER THINGS TO BUY

When Mr. McLaws suggested Mr. Gray had no intention of buying the shares, Mr. Huistel said "there might be better things to buy than those shares."

Mr. Huistel earlier contended he was unaware a separate company was being formed for the Bassano Creamery, although he signed the documents. He was examined extensively on the point by Mr. McLaws and William McLaws, Bassano, counsel for trustees of the E.I.D.

Examined by Mr. Gray's counsel, Mr. Huistel said he understood the transactions now but did not at the time. Counsel reminded him that the new company had 5,008 shares, of which 5,000 were held by National Food at all times. Mr. Huistel said he signed because he thought it was for the good of the National Food Company.

"Were you satisfied with the documents at the time?" inquired Judge Jackson."

"Well, I signed them," answered Mr. Huistel.

Mr. Gray's counsel reminded him he took the shares to his own counsel to obtain security on them and asked if this did not indicate he knew they were new shares for a new company. Mr. Huistel said he wasn't aware it was a new company.

Examined by Mr. McLaws, counsel for the trustees, Mr. Huistel said it was quite likely that when the new company was formed that K. Dimitrovitch, director of National Food with Mr. Huistel, that Mr. Dimitrovitch had made an inventory of the Bassano Creamery. Both were together in Bassano at the time.

COVERED ALL POINTS

After going over point by point the Bassano Creamery situation that the new company was going to pay taxes to Bassano and other factors with Mr. Huistel, counsel for the trustees, said that covered all the points in the agreement forming the new company.

When Mr. Blackstock protested the remark, Mr. McLaws declared that it had been suggested Mr. Huistel had signed something he did not understand and "that is not correct," declared Mr. McLaws.

Mr. Mackenzie gave evidence regarding a visit made to his office by Mr. Huistel and Mr. Gray in October, 1938, when Mr. Mackenzie drew up the option in Mr. Gray's favor on Mr. Huistel's 22nd shares of National Food Products Limited. The E.I.D. paid the legal fees. It was quite usual as the optionee often did so, said Mr. Mackenzie.

DISCUSSED QUESTION

Mr. Mackenzie said he had written Mr. Gray and Mr. McLaws, counsel for the trustees regarding the new company formed to operate the Bassano creamery and that subsequently Mr. McLaws had discussed the matter with him. Mr. Mackenzie said he also had received a telephone call from J. J. Frawley of the Alberta attorney-general's department, which had become concerned over the position of the government as a creditor of National Food Products Limited.

Mr. Duby was called by counsel for the E.I.D. trustees. Mr. Duby said he formerly was a director of National Food until the directors were cut from 12 to two in September, 1938. He identified letters which mentioned obtaining a loan from the E.I.D. to the National Foods with the Bassana creamery as security. Mr. Duby said a $4,000 loan had been mentioned at times.

Questioned by Mr. Blackstock, Mr. Duby said he could not remember being at any meeting of National Food directors when any resolution regarding a loan from E. I. D. had been considered. There had been discussions about obtaining such a loan, he added.

Mr. Duby said he had been critical of National Food minutes and considered it better to sell all of National Food instead of just a part of it. He said he had discussed with Mr. Gray the question of the E. I. D. taking over all of National Food properties in the E.I.D. area.

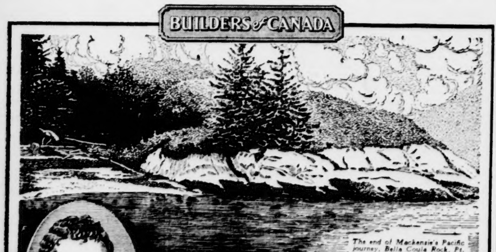
KITCHENER, Ont., June 16.—Lewis Wick, 58, and Bill Dedyna were killed and four others injured when lightning struck the group last night as they sought shelter from a storm under a tree. The injured: Eric White, Joseph Dunbrook, Duncan Scott, Peter Macmar.

Dunbrook was taken to hospital where his condition was reported as "fair." The other men were believed to be not seriously hurt.

All were employees of the Kitchener parks department.

BUILDERS of CANADA



The end of Mackenzie's Pacific journey, Bella Coula Rock, Pt. Menzies on Bentinck Arm, B.C.

Sir Alexander Mackenzie

A giant among Canada's men of action. Partner in the famous Northwest Company, he discovered two of Canada's mighty rivers. In 1793, at the age of 30, he was the first white man to reach the Pacific Ocean overland by crossing the North American continent north of the Spanish Possessions. His daring trip via Peace and Fraser Rivers opened up a new world beyond the Rockies to Canadian Fur Traders.
